The Jordan Re-Union.

Another year has rolled around, and we are called upon to chronicle the event of the Jordan re-union, which took place June 20th, 1908. Just a year ago the mother, Mrs. N. D. Jordan and seven daughters, as follows: Mrs. Wm. H. Logue, Mrs. Thos. Logue, Mrs. J. H. Beck, Mrs. John W. Nelson, Mrs Geo. A. Strawbridge, Mrs. R. J. Miller and Miss Nora all met for the first time at the home of their mother at Sterling Run and had such an enjoyable time, that it was decided that they meet each year, as near that time as was possible. They all agreed to meet at the old homestead at Huntley, but as it has been somewhat neglected they landed at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. H. Logue, and had a lively time till, "the male side of the house" realized, as usual, that it was time for luncheon. So it was decided they build a good stout table out in the orchard under the trees. The ladies brought on the good things, and it was not long 'till every one was doing justice to himself and a jollier, not to say quieter crowd had visited that section for years.

After dinner they all repaired to the old home, where Mr. Elmer Hanes was in waiting for a photograph of the happy group. It was a fine day and we trust for a good picture. Not one was absent that attended last year, as the Lord is kind to those who love and serve him. He has not permitted one to be called from the large family. As all were present, mother and seven daughters, and their husbands except one, (Thos. Logue) and sixteen grandchildren.

Pleasant Callers.

The PRESS sanctum was favored by a call on Wednesday from Mr. Edgar Youngman, P. & E. Division Ticket Agent, Williamsport, Pa., accompanied by our townsman, Mr. Thos. Gallagher, for many years the obliging agent for the company at this place. [illegible]ness on the P. & E. picking up.

Outing Party.

A jolly outing party, composed of Messrs. E. D. White and wife, F. F. Hilliker and family and Dr. Leon Felt and wife, passed last week on Parker Run, having a great time, eating speckled beauties and enjoying the delightfum mountain air.

Hicks Run Crowded.

The residents of Hicks Run never witnessed a larger celebration than was held there last Saturday. Fully two thousand people were present and were well entertained by all the amusements that belong to a Fourth of July celebration. The day was most pleasantly spent by viewing a parade in the morning, followed by speaking and fantastics. Dancing was an enjoyable feature all day and lasted until mid-night. Hicks, Run Band furnished most excellent music. For such a large crowd, everything ran along very quietly and in order. The people who had the privilege of attending the celebration, will remember it as a day well spent.

Montgomery—Bradshaw.

A beautiful home wedding took place at Pierson, Fla., June 17, 1908 at 2:30 p. m.. when Margaret L. Montgomery and David Bradshaw were united in marriage. The wedding took place at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Harper, who are close friends of the bride and groom.

The parlor was tastily decorated in green, with a touch of color here and there. Pink and white, these being the bride's colors.

To the strains of a beautiful wedding march rendered by Mrs. J. Pitt Felt, the bridal party entered the room around which were grouped loving friends waiting to witness this the crowning event in the lives of their two friends.

Miss Jessie Pelton and Mr. J. J. Peterson, officiating as bridesmaid and e st man, entered the room first, separating and taking their places at either side of the bridal arch. They were followed by the bride and groom, who stopped under the arch. The bride was prettily gowned in a princess dress of white silk crepe de-chene and carried a lovely bouquet of brides roses. The groom wore conventional black. The solemn Presbyterian ceremony was performed by the Rev. B. B. Knapp of DeLaud.

After our two friends were united for better or worse they faced those present to receive their blessings and congratulations which were never given with more love and fervor than to these young people who had united their joys and sorrows. Among those present were Mr. and Mrs. J. Pitt Felt of Emporium.

After congratulations the party adjourned to the dining room which was beautifully decorated with asparagus fern, pink and white oleanders. After a delightful repast the party repaired to the parlor where a social hour was pleasantly passed by all.

Mr. and Mrs. Bradshaw left on the 8:15 train for DeLand where they will reside for a short time. The bride's traveling dress was a jacket suit of old rose trimmed in brown, with hat and gloves to match.

The bride is a lovely young lady whom we were pleased to have with us the greater part of last winter. Her home is in Emporium, Pa., but we of Pierson and Emporia, Fla, feel that we have some claim on her too She was a general favorite where ever she went and while we wish her all the joys and as few of the sorrows of life, we cannot help but feel sad at her parting.

The groom has made his home at Daytona, Fla., for the past few years, though the early part of his life was spent in Pierson. He is a popular young man and has many friends, both in Pierson and Daytona. They will make their future home at Daytona, Fla., where the groom has a position as an architect.—DeLand (Fla.) New.

Mighty Hunter Wykoff.

Isaac William Wykoff, of Cameron, the trapper and hunter, was a PRESS visitor on Monday and gave us the result of his winter's trapping and hunting, viz: 102 Muskrats, 19 Mink, 12 Coons, 4 Weasels, 1 Wild Cat, 1 Otter, 4 Foxes and 11 Skunks. In addition to his trapping during recent years he reports 69 bear as the record of his hunting during the years he has followed his life in the woods. Mr. Wykoff is now 73 years old and thinks his record will beat any other in Cameron county, unless it be Fred Yentzer. Who can beat his record.

Shippen Tax Notice.

The Shippen Township Tax Duplicate for 1908 has been placed in my hands for collection. Therefore, notice is hereby given that I will be at the Sweesey School House, July 11th; Howard Siding. July 18th and at Election House, July 25th. After July 30th, 1908, ten per cent. will be added to all taxes.

DEATH S DOINGS

SANFORD.

Mary Sanford, wife of the late Samuel Sanford, died at her home at Beechwook, last Thursday night of paralysis, aged about 70 years. Mrs. Sanford has been a resident of Cameron county for about fifty years and was held in the highest esteem by all who knew her. The funeral was held on Saturday and interment made in the cemetery at Beechwood, the Rev. Osgood officiated.

HICKS.

MRS. OLIVE JANE (WHALLEN) HICKS, aged 74, widow of the late Levi Hicks, died at the old homestead at Hicks Run, on July 1st, 1908, after a long illness. Her funeral took place on July 3rd from the home of her son, Robt. L. Hicks. Deceased has resided on Bennetts Branch all of her life. She leaves two sons—R. L. and John R—also two brothers and one sister to mourn her death. Rev. Ebersole officiated at the funeral.

MUNSELL.

LORENZO BARNEY MUNSELL, much respected and industrious citizen, of this place, died at his home on Fifth street after an illness of one year, on Monday, June 29th, aged 59 years. Mr, Munsell was in the employ of the Penna. R. R. Co., as carpenter for thirty-eight years. He helped to erect most of the bridges on the P. & E division. A short service was held at the home last Thursday morning at seven o'clock, Rev. Anderson of the M. E. church officiating, after which the remains were taken by Mr. LaBar's assistant C. W. Rishell, on the 8:10 train to Eagleville, Pa., his former home for burial. Deceased is survived by a wife and six children: Mrs. Carrie Teitsworth, Williamsport, Mrs. Margaret Houser, Jamestown and the Misses Sarah and Anna and Wm. G., and Brady at home. The PRESS extends its sympathy to the bereaved family.

Not Only Mother But Father Love

Some weeks ago, an application for a child reached THE DELINEATOR, which is conducting an active campaign for the placing of homeless children in family homes. It was signed with the writer's surname and the initial of the Christian name, and the reply was directed "Mrs.——." An answer came promptly:

"There is no Mrs.——, and I suppose that settles it. Why a man, sane, sensible and of good character, should not want to have about him a little child, even though he be unmarried, pases beyond my comprehension. I am a bachelor and I want to adopt a boy, but I suppose the rules will forbid."

There has been a good deal written about dormant mother-love, but the fact that there is a sentiment as father-love seems to have kept well in the background.

Yet it would be a poor country that confined its sentiment to its whmen. The natural emotions are the inheritance of both sexes, even if it is but one which has the courage to confess them.

Mission Work.

Mr. H. O. McClarran, of Bradford, who is doing mission work was a PRESS caller last week and stated that he had held meetings in the lumber camps of J. E. DuBois, conducted and managed by Messrs. Taylor, Lantz and Kelley. Meetings held the previous Friday, Saturday and Sunday were attended by about four hundred men. A Sunday School was organized in the Lantz Camp.

Eye Specialist.

Prof. W. H. Budine, the well known Eye Specialist, of Binghamton, N. Y., will be at R. H. Hirsch's jewelry store, Emporium, Pa., July 11th. If you can't see well or have headache don't fail to call and see Prof. Budine, as he guarantees to cure all such cases. Lenses ground and fitted in old frames. Eyes tested and examined free. All work guaranteed.

Street Paving.

Shall Emporium abate the mud nuisance and pave Fourth street thereby putting a stop to squandering thousandf of dollars of the people's money, continues to agitate our citizens. Those opposed to public improvements—unless some one else foots the bills—are conducting a gum shoe campaign against the paving project and making many untruthful, as well as ridiculous, ascertions.

All live towns are rapidly paving their streets, thereby giving employment to scores of idle workmen. Stop being "knockers," put your shoulders to the wheel and help build up Emporium. When the Council acts upon this petition let it be for paving. There never was a public improvement project yet advocated but some objectors appeared. Don't be a clam:

Sizerville Mineral Springs.

Sizerville Mineral Springs, one of nature's health resorts, with its well equipped hotel, is now ready for guests. Hon. F. H. Councilman has spared neither time or money to make this place suitable and comfortable for the entertainment of his guests. It is unnecessary to say anything in regards to the medicinal qualities of the mineral water of this great resort, as it is known far and wide, but with a fine hotel situated there where you may have baths, either hot or cold. The water will do more good for those afflicted than in the past. Board can be secured by the day or week and the table is set with the best the market affords, well cooked and plenty of it. The Councilmans are well known as a very hospitable people, anyone becoming a guest of theirs will be well entertained is putting it mildly. Let every one take advantage of this fine resort and visit it often, drink plenty of the water and partake of some of the sumptuous meals at this elegant hotel and you will feel better natured toward all your fellowmen.

Hitchcock is the Man.

HOT SPRINGS, VA., July 7.—The executive committee of the Republican national committee will meet here to-morrow, and from present indications there will only be a brief session, at which Frank H. Hitchcock will be elected chairman and Representative McKinley of Illinois will be made treasurer of the national committee.

Back From the Farm.

Editor Hockley returned yesterday from visiting at his old home on the farm near Muncy, Pa. He is all filled up and "smeared" all over with spread. After he is at home over night his better half will go after him and clean him up in shape for the season's wear.

The Fourth at Port Allegany.

One of the largest celebrations ever held in Port Allegany was last Saturday, when the Ever Glorious was celebrated with all that vim imaginable. The streets were thronged from early morning until late at night and every one present was endowed with the true spirit of patriotism. The program was well taken care of and everything ran off smoothly. Port Allegany is well known as a very hospitable place and made good her reputation on the day of days in our national history. The Mountaineer Hose Company, of this place, attired in their white suits, with Joseph Burnsides as foreman, made a very creditable appearance with thirty men in line. Taken as a whole the day will long be remembered by every one present.

From Colorado.

Our esteemed friends, Dr. and Mrs D. C. Groves, who reside at River Portal, Col., where the Dr., is located for the benefit of his health, sends us the Denver Sunday Times, of June 21st, containing an interesting description of the town, written by William Atherton Du Puy. In order that our readers may know what great work this government is doing, we publish the article, which is headed, "Sunshine Only Twenty Minutes a Day".

There is a thriving, bustling town in the West where the rays of the sun are felt only twenty minutes out of every twenty-four hours. River Portal, in the Gunnison Canon in Colorado, is the town, and the beetling precipices that overhang it, leaving only a strip of blue above, are responsible for the briefness of the sunshine.

It is a town of romance from the viewpoint of endeavor and accomplishment, and the task on which its inhabitants are engaged is like that accomplished when Hercules turned the River Styx into the Augean stables and cleaned them. But here it is a roaring mountain torrent that is to be turned into a tunnel pierced six miles under a mountain of solid rock, that its floods may spread out on the deserts and make them fertile for American farmers

Uncle Sam himself is back of the enterprise and has built the town. Five years ago Gunnson Canon was an unsolved mystery. At its upper end, where it entered a gorge with perpendicular cliffs rising three thousand feet, men had looked into its frothing rapids and turned back. Twenty-four miles below, the canon became again accessible, and men had come and watched the waters tumbling down from above, and had found no way of ascent.

At the upper end had been built the strongest rafts that men knew how to put together, and these had been started through the gorge. Those below had watched for and rescued fragments of these rafts. In this land of adventure two men had been found bold enough to dare to attempt at running the canon for the mere love of the danger; but their bodies were broken to pieces on the rocks.

Such were the conditions when engineers of the Reclamation Service looked on the Gunnison River running to waste, and calculated its value if it could be transferred to the other side of the mountain and spread over the level plain. Here the Uncompahgre was under control; but it was insufficient to accomplish much toward reclaiming the great stretches of land available.

But engineering skill was brought to bear, and the thing is being done. Men were let down on scaffolds with block and tackle over clifts half a mile high, to take observations of the stream and finally a party was fitted out on pneumatic rafts and succeeded in getting through the canon. Half way down they found a nook from which, in the course of erosion, a great block of mountain side had tumbled into the stream and been eaten away. From this point it was decided that the tunnel should be sent through the mountain, and the town for the men that did the work should be established in the cove.

So River Portal came into existence. It has to-day five hundred people, who boast of a civilization and opportunities that will compare favorably with any town of its size in the East. The men that are building the tunnel have brought their families to dwell in the eternal shade of the canon. Uncle Sam also maintains a hospital for the care of his sick, and a library where the inhabitants may read the best and latest newspapera, magazines and books. There is a well equipped public school, an electric lighting plant, and a pumping plant for the village water supply. Terraces have been leveled for the houses, which rise one above the other up the mountainside. The stream has been crowded back as far as possible toward the opposite bank, and land built up for other buildings. A government road has been cut from the solid rock of the mountain, and pitches into the canon at a grade of twenty-four per cent.

The sun rises at eleven twenty each morning and sets twenty[illegible]es later; but the men need no [illegible]e, as they are at work under[illegible], and it could never reach th[illegible]

An Old Timer Here.

Mr. James M. Vorshee, of New York, accompanied by his wife and daughter are guests at the New Warner. Mr, Vorshee resided in Emporium in 1866 and 1867 and was employed as night telegraph operator. The gentleman made the PRESS office a visit and inquired for many of the old timers. He left Emporium in the fall of 1867 and crossed the plains before any railroad was constructed and was with Sheridan and Custer during the Indian War of 1868. Mr. Vorshee is engaged in promoting a smelting patent.

Pic-Nic.

The students of the Emporium Summer Normal, held a pic-nic at Sizerville, June 27th, the following members being present: Alvira Farr, Flora Schlect, Jossie Card, Margaret Nickler, Alice Quigley, Bessie Whaley, Gertrude Swesey, Nellie O'Keefe, Ruby Heideck, Clara Edwards, Anna Welsh, Olive Malloy, Margaret Weisenfluh, Avis Lane, Jane Glenn, Gladys O'Keefe, Mabel Edwards, Rose Ganey, and Mrs. E. F. Zwald chaperon.

The recent improvements made on this pretty resort, render it a very good place for a day's outing. The girls realized this at a glance and all began to enjoy the day. The first thing in order being a ball game, proposed by the four champion players, Rose Ganey, Alice Quigley, Flora Scelecht and Margaret Nickler. The score being a tie—4-4, which showed the great ability of the players on both sides. After the game all partook of a bounteous spread, the table being beautifully decorated with June roses.

After taking several snap shots all departed, carrying with them a lasting impression of the place and the genial hospitality of the people.

Ha! Ha! Laughed Pat.

English John, and Pat, were two friendly workmen who were constantly tilting, each one trying to outwit the other. "Are you good at measurement?" asked John. "I am that," said Pat quickly. "Then could you tell me how many shirts I could get out of a yard?" asked John. "Sure," said Pat. "It depends on whose yard you get into."

Consolation for Girls.

Beware of the homely little girl, for she is more than likely to be the handsomest of her set when she is ready to leave school, and will no doubt remember any slights that were offered her when she was an ugly little duckling. It is seldom that the pretty child grows into a very beautiful woman, and that is no doubt the way nature evens up things.

Odors of the Kitchen.

At a cooking lecture in Brooklyn recently a woman in the audience, during the conference that followed the lecture, said that she had learned when boiling any vegetable of high flavor, such as cabbage or onions, to do the work in the oven. This saved the permeating of the kitchen and other parts of the house with the malodorous steam.

PARTY'S SWAN SONG

D. B. HILL'S REQUIEM OF THE OLD DEMOCRACY.

Though in a Sense the One-Time New York Statesman Is Mistaken, in Many Other Ways His Words Are True.

David Bennett Hill sailed for Europe not despairing of his country, but despairing of his party. Almost his last words were:

'There is no Democratic party!"

His contention was that Mr. Bryan was never "wanted" by the Democratic party—that he had "forced" himself upon it, etc., etc.—so that the end of it all was: "There is no Democratic party!"

Of course, in one sense, Mr. Hill is entirely mistaken. There is a Democratic party, growing daily in practical vigor. It is without American traditions, and its ideals are not historic American ideals. But it is there, a visible force to be reckoned with.

It is not the Democracy of Jefferson, flinging the boundaries of the republic across the Mississippi to the Rocky mountains. It is not the Democracy of Jackson, sternly repressing disruptive tendencies and standing fast for honest payment of honest debts. It is not the Democracy of Polk, proud of the republic's strength, pushing its banner to the Pacific, and wisely providing for its future growth. It is not the Democracy of Tilden and Cleveland, standing for efficiency and economy in government and for national honor and honesty. It is not the Democracy that stood always for the reign and government of laws and not of men merely.

Of that great and old Democracy, of which he and Grover Cleveland, in his honored age and retirement, are almost the only survivors who in their day played effective parts, the words of David Bennett Hill are the requiem.

WARNS AGAINST A BLUNDER.

Washington Star Deprecates Suggestion That Has Been Made.

There is a renewal of the suggestion that if the Democrats capture the presidency and elect a majority of the next house an extra session of the present congress will be called and the tariff revised before the Republicans surrender power.

Even if the maneuver could be executed it would be unfair and unwise—unfair, in that it would be an attempt to nullify a part of the meaning of the election, and unwise, because the attempt would fail.

Does anybody suppose that a Democratic president and a Democratic house of representatives would accept such a revision of the schedules as the Republicans on their death-bed would make? They would not, but would immediately upon taking office propose a revision of their own. They would feel themselves instructed to do so by the election returns. Thus we should see the country twice stirred within six months on the tariff subject.

But such an attempt on the part of the Republicans could not succeed. The Democrats of the house could offer but small resistance, but the Democrats of the senate could, and would, block the program. By a united effort—which they would be certain to make—they would talk it to death. Less than four months would be the time allowance, and the routine business would have to be taken into account. Either the tariff bill, or some of the supply bills, would have to be abandoned. And as for the supplies, Uncle Sam must have his rations.

Revisions, as everybody concedes, is coming. The only question is how soon and by whom. Next spring is early enough, and it is for the people to say at the polls who shall do the work. A Democratic victory, it is true, would not dispose of the Republican senate, but even that body would have to take some account of a popular expression at the polls which had commissioned Democrats to deal with the subject.—Washington Star.

Mr. Bryan's Income.

The San Francisco Call says:

"We congratulate Mr. Bryan on his prosperity and admire his ingenuity. The longer he runs the fatter he grows in purse. It makes little difference to him whether he is elected or not. In fact, he would lose money by success at the polls. He is the peerless leader who plucks victory for himself out of defeat for his party. He is the greatest funeral director the world has ever known, and he quite deserves his prosperity, because it was a stroke of real genius to conceive of the Democratic party as an asset."

With Taft in the White House and Taft ideas in control of the Republican national committee the people who have fought the long uphill fight for political and commercial righteousness need have no fear that the effects of their victories will be lost. Our destiny is upward, not downward.

In the majestic solitude of his sanctum Editor Bryan probably is thinking things too profound for utterance except in the columns of the Commoner—for which zealous and uncompromising champion of the peepul now is the time to subscribe.

Mr. Bryan is reported to be making overtures to Judge Parker for the purpose of getting the candidate of 1904 to swing New York into line for the Democratic ticket next fall. This certainly is a grand compliment to the judge.

TAKE STEP TOWARD REVISION.

Senate Committee on Finance Has Begun Its Work.

A step toward tariff revision has been taken by the committee on finance of the United States senate. The committee met in New York and gave evidence that it intends fairly to follow the instructions laid down in the resolution which was passed at the last session of congress. The country has the right to expect that the work of the investigation of conditions with a view to action will be continued in the spirit in which it has been begun.

Three sub-committees were appointed by the greater committee which has just held its first working meeting. Senator Hopkins of Illinois was made chairman of the sub-committee whose investigating work will be of vital importance to the great middle western industries. In brief, the work of the Illinois senator and of those immediately associated with him will be "To consider what changes in customs rates are desirable, to obtain proof of the relative cost of production in this country and in the principal competing foreign countries of the various articles affected by such changes."

As a cold matter of fact this sub-committee has a more important work than has either of the other three bodies into which the main committee has been divided. Senator Hopkins promises hard work. The information obtained will be of especial value to our manufacturing interests and of scarcely less value to other American industrial pursuits.

THE CROPS AND PROSPERITY.

Fruit of Fertile Fields Bound to Do Away with Hard Times.

How can hard times remain in a country that will produce this year 248,000,000 bushels of spring wheat, to say nothing of 440,000,000, bushels of winter wheat; that last year produced hay to the valuation of $750,000,000, more than the value of the cotton crop, and whose production of corn was valued by the department of agriculture at $1,336,901,000, or one-third more than the appropriations of the last congress for all the expenses and enterprises of the federal government, including the navy, and all its colonial possessions, including the Panama canal?

The June crop report of the government says that 631,000 acres more than last year are devoted to spring wheat. The total area is 17,710,000 acres. The acreage for winter wheat is 322,000 acres greater than for 1907. There is therefore reason to hope that the wheat crop this year will be larger than last year, and may even exceed the bumper yield of 1906, when nearly three-quarters of a billion bushels were harvested. The Canadian yield will be about 100,000,000 bushels.

If prices are maintained at their present level, as seems likely, money will be added to the wealth of this country in such amounts that business cannot fail to feel its revivifying influence. If prosperity has not yet arrived it is certain to come.

Form Currency Associations.

Secretary Cortelyou has issued a circular of instructions about the operation of the new currency act.

This makes pertinent the observation that in a number of cities bankers are already taking steps to form the "national currency associations" necessary for securing the emergency notes where commercial paper (instead of state, county, and municipal bonds) is to be deposited against them—national banks desiring to deposit bonds dealing directly with the treasury.

Even in New York where bankers were disposed to pooh-pooh the Aldrich-Vreeland emergency bill as providing a mere "makeshift" which probably would never be resorted to, the banks are getting in line for organizing an association.

These bankers still profess to think the "emergency" is not going to occur. But then, they add in effect, "seeing that it might occur, why, we may as well get ready for it beforehand; so let's organize anyhow." That's it exactly.

That is all the supporters of the emergency currency bill contended for, namely, that ability to procure an extra supply of good sound money would be a handy thing for a bank to have 'round in case of emergency. These bankers are admitting that when they sensibly propose to organize the "national currency associations."

Your house or store may never burn down. Probably it won't. But it is a comfortable thing to have it insured, you know.—Chicago Tribune.

Country May Rely on Taft.

Conservatism need not take alarm as to Mr. Taft's views about the injunction. In proof of that let us recall what Mr. Spooner said of the "wide and deep knowledge of the law, and the highly creditable service on the bench" which will admirably qualify Mr. Taft for "the tremendous responsibility of filling several vacancies in the supreme court," which will devolve on him as president. Mr. Taft is emphatically not a man to favor any plank or statute derogating from the proper power and dignity of the bench.

Those Democrats who are restless because the Hon. David B. Hill has gone to Europe on the eve of the campaign should be reassured by the knowledge that "Fingy" Conners still is on the job.

MURAT HALSTEAD, EDITOR, IS DEAD

MAN FAMOUS FOR 50 YEARS AS A WRITER JOINS THE MAJORITY.

WIELDED A FORCEFUL PEN.

Won Fame as a War Correspondent and Critic of the Acts of Men High in Office and Also Wrote Many Books.

Cincinnati, O.—Murat Halstead, one of the leaders in American journalism for over half a century and widely known as a vigorous editorial and magazine writer, died at his home in this city Thursday afternoon, in his 79th year. At his bedside were his wife, his son Robert and one daughter, Mrs. Arthur Stem. Mr. Halstead had been failing in strength for several months and on Wednesday suffered from cerebral hemorrhage.

Mr. and Mrs. Halstead celebrated their golden wedding anniversary a little more than a year ago, at which time Mr. Halstead's health seemed frail, and as time passed he grew weaker, so that the news of his death was not wholly unexpected. The sudden death of his son Marshall a few months ago was a severe shock to him and is believed to have had an adverse effect on his health. Albert Halstead, another son, is American consul at Birmingham, England.

Mr. Halstead was one of the great editors of the nineteenth century and one of the strongest tributes to his incisiveness as a writer was in 1889, when his nomination by President Harrison to be American minister to Germany was rejected by the United States senate because of articles he had published charging corruption to some members of that body.

He was a native of Butler county, O., and after a short service on a literary weekly he in 1853 became connected with the Cincinnati Commercial, in which he secured a small interest a year later, becoming chief owner in 1865. Nearly 20 years later his paper was consolidated with the Gazette and he was editor-in-chief of the combined newspaper until years afterwards, when another consolidation was effected, new owners securing control.

For a time he was editor of the Brooklyn Standard Union and during the last ten years he has figured largely as a magazine and special news writer, besides preparing a number of books on matters of historical interest. In the civil war Mr. Halstead personally reported many battles, being rated as a war correspondent of the first class and later in the Franco-German war and in the Spanish-American war he added to his reputation in that line.

WITH FIREWORKS AND MUSIC

Citizens of Utica, N. Y., Welcomed Congressman Sherman to His Home.

Utica, N. Y.—The homecoming last night of Congressman James S. Sherman was made the occasion of such a demonstration as has rarely been seen in this section of the state. The welcome to the Republican candidate for the vice presidency was a non-partisan affair and to a great extent personal, for the congressman's recovery from his recent somewhat alarming illness gave added reason for public rejoicing upon his safe return.

Mr. Sherman, accompanied by Mrs. Sherman and Dr. Carter, reached here from the west at 9:18 o'clock. As his train drew into the station bands played, fireworks were set off, cannons boomed and church chimes rang out. In Baggs square and every other spot adjacent to the New York Central station thousands of persons were crowded. Mr. Sherman stepped from the train slowly, looking pale and worn. A monster procession formed in the vicinity of the station and escorted the candidate to his home. The line of march covered fully two miles and the paraders included organizations of a civic, military and fraternal nature.

The route lay through the principal streets, the buildings of which were decorated with flags, streamers and mottoes, all illuminated by electric lights. A dozen bands furnished music, fireworks added a spectacular feature, and thousands of persons ranged along the route cheered. At Mr. Sherman's home the formal welcome took place, the principal speech being by Mayor Wheeler.

Captured Seven Revolutionists.

San Antonio, Tex.—Seven alleged Mexican revolutionists have been captured by United States troops at Del Rio.

Nine Killed; 50 Injured.

Knobnoster, Mo.—The California special train from St. Louis on the Missouri Pacific railroad collided with a train from Kansas City two miles east of here Thursday. Nine persons were killed and 50 injured.

Calls on Banks to Pay $45,000,000.

Washington, D. C.—Secretary of the Treasury Cortelyou on Thursday announced a further call upon the national bank depositories for approximately $45,000,000, to be paid on or before the 15th inst.

ORCHARD ESCAPES HANGMAN

DEATH SENTENCE OF A NOTORIOUS CRIMINAL IS COMMUTED.

Idaho's Pardon Board Fixes His Punishment at Life Imprisonment.

Boise, Idaho.—The state board of pardons on Wednesday commuted the sentence of Harry Orchard, who was under sentence to hang next Friday for the murder of ex-Gov. Steunenberg, to imprisonment for life.

Orchard was arrested ten days after the assassination of Steunenberg at Caldwell, Ida., December 30, 1905, and a few weeks later while confined in the Idaho penitentiary confessed his guilt to James McParland, a well known detective, at the same time asserting that he was employed to commit the crime by officers of the Western Federation of Miners. As a result of his confession Charles Moyer, president; William D. Haywood, secretary-treasurer of the western Federation of Miners, and Charles D. Pettibone were arrested in Denver and brought to Idaho to answer to the charge of murder.

John Simpkins, another member of the federation, was also indicted and is still a fugitive. Haywood and Pettibone were acquitted after memorable trials in which Orchard told a story of wholesale assassinations which shocked the world. Following the trial of Pettibone the case against Moyer was dismissed. Orchard, who was indicted separately, when arraigned after his confession, stood mute, and the court directed that a plea of not guilty be entered. His case was continued from term to term until April 10, this year, when it was called at Caldwell and he asked permission to change his plea. The court granted the request and Orchard pleaded guilty to murder in the first degree.

In pronouncing the sentence of death a week later, Judge Wood recommended that the board of pardons commute the sentence, saying he was firmly convinced that Orchard had told the exact truth at the trials of Haywood and Pettibone and that he was therefore, for the service he had rendered the state, entitled to clemency.

ARE ACCUSED OF CONSPIRACY

New York Brokers Are Alleged to Have Been Involved in a Deal Involving Stolen Money.

Pittsburg, Pa.—Attorneys for the Farmers' Deposit National bank on Wednesday filed a statement in the civil suit entered against a New York brokerage firm and its local representative last March, when Henry Reiber, paying teller, and John Young, auditor of the bank, were arrested on charges of defrauding the bank out of $1,105,000. The former employes pleaded guilty and are now serving time in the penitentiary.

The statement filed Wednesday accuses Reiber and Young of conspiracy with the New York brokerage firm of Miller & Co. and Harry Silverman, Pittsburg representative of that firm, to secure money to corner the stock of the Pittsburg Lead and Zinc Co. The statement alleges that $500,000 was secured from the bank and used in the alleged deal and judgment is asked for that sum.

It is alleged that in May, 1907, Miller & Co. wished to secure every available share of the stock and corner the market, and that Reiber and Young were induced to furnish $500,000 of the bank's money to Silverman, who gave it to Miller & Co. and the cash was used in buying the lead and zinc company's stock. The deal failed and the money was lost. The statement charges that Silverman and members of the firm of Miller & Co. knew where Reiber and Young were securing the money furnished.

CASTAWAYS ARE RESCUED.

British Warship Finds 22 Shipwrecked Sailors on a Desert Island.

Sydney, N. S. W.—While sending a farewell message fastened by a quill to an albatross' neck, one of a series of daily messages recounting the story of the wreck on Antipodes island in the South Pacific ocean, of the French bark President Felix Faure, 22 starving French sailors were rescued by the British warship Pegasus and brought to Sydney. The castaways, who lived a Crusoe life, scrambled ashore on Antipodes island, south of New Zealand, and near where the survivors of the British bark Dundonald were rescued months before, after their vessel was driven ashore during a fog in March last and had almost given up hope of rescue when the British warship was sighted.

The men were ravenous when rescued, having been on short rations for some time. They had needles made out of blades of pocket knives, dinner knives from an iron hook torn from a cask washed ashore from the wreck.

A Fatal Crash.

Des Moines, Ia.—One man was killed, three were seriously injured and six were slightly hurt when a Great Western work train crashed into the Rock Island's Indianola local at a street crossing here Wednesday.

Wright Is Secretary of War.

Washington, D. C.—Gen. Luke E. Wright on Wednesday took the oath of office as secretary of war. The oath was administered by John B. Randolph, the veteran assistant to Chief Clerk Schofield.

REVOLUTIONISTS ARE DEFEATED

IN TWO FIGHTS WITH SOLDIERS OF THE MEXICAN GOVERNMENT.

TROOPS PATROL THE BORDER

American Cavalrymen Are Acting as Policemen to Keep Undesirable Mexican from Crossing the Boundary Line.

San Antonio, Texas.—A special to the Express from Del Rio, Texas, says:

It is reported here that a company of rurales on Tuesday surrounded a detachment of eight of the revolutionists who attacked the little town of Las Vacas and that a fight occurred in the mountains southwest of the city. The revolutionists were short of ammunition and after the exchange of a few volleys their ammunition became exhausted. The rurales are reported to have charged the hiding place of the men and, despite the fact that they offered to surrender, shot them to death.

A special from Saltillo, Mexico, says:

The Viesca situation is clearing up. All the bandits in that town have scattered on the approach of troops.

Only by the merest chance did Mayor Zertuche escape being killed by the rioters on the day of the attack on his house.

El Paso, Texas.—Revolutionists on Tuesday attacked the Mexican post at Palomas, Chihuahua, 100 miles west of El Paso, and were repulsed after a battle with the garrison.

The attack began when a bomb was thrown into the telegraph office, thus shutting off communication with outside points. In the fight which followed, several hundred shots were fired and many bombs thrown at the headquarters of the officers.

Owing to the fact that the bombs were ill-timed the officers were enabled to throw them away before they exploded, thus saving the building and their own lives. The fight lasted one hour, after which the attacking party fled to the mountains. One man was killed, but he was a non-combatant.

According to advices received by the El Paso & Southwestern railroad, their foreman at Mimbres, N. M., is a prisoner in the hands of the revolutionists. Immigration and customs inspectors have been called on duty at Columbus, N. M., across the border from Palomas.

Washington, D. C.—American military forces are now in service for the enforcement of the neutrality laws along the Mexican border. Gen. Meyer, commanding the Department of Texas, has reported to the war department that directions already have been given for sending four troops of cavalry from posts in his department to Del Rio. As to other points he will be guided by his conferences with the civil officials.

The employment of American troops for this purpose is almost without precedent in recent years and the law officers of the war department as well as the attorney general have been obliged to give close study to the question of the extent to which they may exercise the power of preventing persons entering the United States across the Mexican border.

LOST A BAG OF SPARKLERS.

Diamond Dealer Claims He Was Robbed of Gems Worth $35,000.

Chicago.—S. C. Powell, a buyer employed by Stern Brothers & Co., wholesale jewelers in the Columbus Memorial building, 103 State street, reported to the police Tuesday that he either lost or was robbed of a sack containing $35,000 worth of unset diamonds. Powell claimed that he had purchased the diamonds a short time previously and had entered the Columbus Memorial building with the intention of turning them over to his employers. He said he entered the elevator, but instead of getting off at the floor on which his firm is located, he rode to the fourth floor and entered a barber shop. When he went to the offices of his employers about 15 minutes later he discovered the diamonds had disappeared.

Powell declared that he was almost positive he had the diamonds in his possession when he entered the building. He said that he had two bags of diamonds, one containing $35,000 worth of the gems and the other $45,000 worth, and that he carried one sack in either inside pocket of his vest. The police are inclined to believe that Powell may have been the victim of pickpockets before entering the building.

Labor Leaders Must Go to Jail.

Chicago.—John J. Brittian, George H. Lakey and Charles G. Grassel, business agents for the Carpenters' union, were on Tuesday sentenced to 30 days in jail for violating an injunction against calling strikes.

Two Men Killed by a Train.

Pittsburg, Pa.—Mike Leva and another foreigner at the McKeesport station Tuesday bidding good-bye to departing countrymen stepped from one moving train in front of another and were crushed to death.

IS TIME TO AWAKE

NECESSITY SHOWN FOR INTELLIGENT CO-OPERATION.

APPEAL TO GENERAL PUBLIC

Up-to-Date Farmer Points Out What Could Be Done If Agriculturists and the Local Press Pulled Together.

It is a question whether the average retailer places sufficient importance upon the necessity for co-operating with the editor of his local paper. The latter is in a position to mould the sentiment of his readers to a degree which makes his assistance on any matter in which the community is interested, very important.

There are of course instances where local newspapers are operated in such a manner as to be of little benefit to the community in which they are published, but these are decidedly the exception and as the Up-to-date Farmer says:

"Your home paper should receive your earnest attention. It may be that your home paper is not run to suit you. It is possible that it pays much more attention to what it considers the best interests of the advertisers than to those of the farmers. There is nothing at all strange about that. You probably pay $1 a year subscription. The average country paper does not have more than 1,000 circulation, and at least one-half of these are exchanges, deadheads and complimentary. The $500 which the average country editor receives does not much more than pay for the blank paper and postage. The editor of such country paper, therefore, must rely almost altogether upon his advertising and job work for his support.

"Is it any wonder that he pays little attention to the desires or the demands of the farmer?

"It is true that the merchant of the country town depends upon the farmers for his business, but country merchants, until lately, have not studied the economics of country life and have not realized their entire dependence upon the prosperity of the farming community of interests in every neighborhood which is directly opposed to the centralization of business in a few large cities has not appealed to these people.

"The country merchant has taken his ideas from the merchant who sold him his goods; the country banker has usually supposed that his interests were identified with those of the banking centers of the world; the country lawyer has taken his political views from the attorneys of corporations, and the country editor has had his work cut out for him by the editors of big daily papers owned and controlled by people who were at the head of special interests.

"These special interests people have tried and have, until recently, made us all believe that the interests of all classes were identical and that a few people who had specialized in the study of finance and politics were to be looked to as the leaders of public opinion.

"Since the panic of 1893 it has slowly dawned upon the general public that the teachings of these self-appointed leaders were not altogether perfect in their logic, and that what was good for the Standard Oil monopoly or the steel trust might not be for the best interests of the farmer or the merchant.

"Corporation lawyers from the city represent us in congress and in the United States senate, and corporation lawyers have framed most of our state laws. It is time for farmers and for those who depend upon them for support to learn that the interests of the speculative classes are not those of the producer or the consumer, and of the honest exchanger of wealth. The editor of the home paper should study these questions from the standpoint of the producer and consumer and not from that of the speculator. The producer should then support the paper so that it will not be necessary for it to take advertising from any but legitimate firms that are looking out for the interests of farmers and producers. The interests of the merchant in a country town depend upon the prosperity of the farmer, and the paper that teaches controlled marketing deserves the support of merchants and a much better support than they now get from farmers."

Seek to Attract Attention.

There are many ways in which the average retailer can get up a cheap though effectual advertisement. An advertisement recently put out by a local concern was a cheap one in so far as the expense of preparing and circulating it was concerned. The fact that it was a novel one, and one which brought the subject matter to the very door of the consumer made it a good one. It was the advertisement of a dye and cleaning concern. The proprietor of the concern seemed to be the owner of a very pretty Spitz dog. He advertised his business through the medium of this dog. One day he would be a red dog, another day he would wear a coat of green, and so on for the various days of the week. The odd colors attracted the attention of all at once and in many cases awakened sympathy. The dog, as if zealous about his master's business, had become a perfect rover, so the advertisement was seen about the town whenever the canine donned a new coat. This is somewhat after the idea employed by the management of a large sewing machine company that uses greyhounds to advantage

PRICE-CUTTING.

In the End the Consumers Are Not Ones Who Gain Benefit.

The average merchant is informed as to the evils of price cutting. He knows just where to draw the line, just how far he dares go in lowering quotations for the sake of drawing trade. He realizes that even if the principle of using "leaders" to attract customers is permissible, it is limited in its usefulness and exceedingly dangerous when overdone. Not only is it apt to degenerate into indiscriminate cutting of prices, to lead to dissatisfaction among customers, and has a tendency toward giving a store a cheap reputation, but it is inclined to arouse suspicion among other merchants and the people as well.

While the merchant is so thoroughly grounded in the matter of price-cutting, the public has not been so generally educated. There are those who exult when store managers are at war believing that they may profit by the losses of the competitors. It is just the old fable of Aesop over again—the lion and the bear fight over the prey until both are too much exhausted to move, and then the sly fox comes along and picks up the dainty and bears it away to eat at his leisure.

The public rejoices over the price-cutting campaigns. It profits by them, and on account of the fact that it has been taught to consider prices only, it feels justified in taking every advantage offered it.

The store which starts a campaign of price reduction and bellows and roars and screams for the sake of drawing custom, will either go under, because it has been foolish or because it has made up its mind to defraud its creditors, or else it sells goods which are far lower in merit and true value than it pretends.

The public loses, but it does not realize it. If a store fails to pay its creditors, the wholesalers and manufacturers must make their losses good in some way. If the store seeks to foist inferior goods upon the public at a lower price, the public gets what it pays for, no doubt, but believes that it has been cheated and robbed, and comes to have a low opinion of merchants as a whole. The whole trouble lies in the fact that the public, instead of being a prey to the merchant, is really playing into the hands of sharpers while seeking, too often, to get the best of the merchants.

KEEPING UP-TO-DATE.

Pertinent Suggestions to Storekeepers As to Doing Business Rightly.

Greatest successes in the retail field, have been made by men who have employed system in all branches of their business. Men of antiquated methods who have made successes would have made more money had they been systematic in their business. Up-to-date methods of bookkeeping, a system for checking over goods as they arrive and as they go out when the orders are filled are most essential. Stock should be kept in such a way that the merchant does not have to waste considerable time before being able to know whether he has any need of any line to fill stocks.

One excellent way in which the country merchant can keep his ideas up-to-date is by spending a day or two each year in visiting the large cities and studying the methods employed by the firms engaged in his line of business. A day off occasionally in some strange town, where a study of windows and store interiors and methods may be made is more than helpful.

In the home town one can never get away from the practices of his fellow tradesmen, unless he benefits by experiences had elsewhere. In a strange place we are of the gazing crowd, and we see things from a different point of view than when at home.

Some criticism may point out a fault that we have been guilty of a hundred times and never noticed, and a criticism of a stranger sometimes forces us to realize that we can improve in our own methods and we profit by the suggestion.

A country town storekeeper may learn much in a city but much of it may be little suited to rural conditions. The small town merchant needs some lessons from progressive members of his own class. Remember that there are many who can excel us in some ways. If we fail to keep alive, some more enterprising competitor will beat us out.

Loud and Lusty Advertising.

There can be seen every once in a while the front of some erstwhile dignified store plastered with flaming red signs, announcing unheard-of bargains, tremendous reductions, sensational, disastrous, ruinous cuts in price, and the rest of the well-worn expressions so common to the cheapest grade of stores. It seems that a merchant is extremely apt to succumb to the wiles of the man who believes in advertising through a megaphone and with a bucket of red paint. What man has the most influence—the man with the loudest voice? What friend gives advice which is heeded—the man with the heaviest tone, who yells in your ear and enforces it with crazy gesticulations? Does the man who exaggerates extravagantly claim faith and trust the most? Advertising is right and proper, but advertising with such methods is cheapening and harmful. It appeals to the senses in the wrong way.

Chinese Salt Tax.

In China the salt tax is a government monopoly. It is one of the principal revenues of the empire, yielding about $3,000,000 a year.

Picked Up in Pennsylvania

YORK.—The Rosedale flour mill and six adjoining buildings were destroyed by fire in Railroad borough, causing a loss of $7,000.

MONONGAHELA.—James Donnelly, aged 35, unmarried, was instantly killed by a Pittsburg & Lake Erie observation train.

GREENSBURG.—Thomas G. Elsaman, a farmer, dropped dead from heart failure at the breakfast table at his home near Madison.

WASHINGTON.—An explosion of escaping natural gas at Houston wrecked the home of Ellis Ellis, so badly injuring both that they died.

KITTANNING.—Mrs. Wm. Thaw's Meromial church, erected in memory of her father, the late Josiah Copley, was struck by lightning and totally destroyed.

WEST NEWTON.—Pricedale, a dry town for 45 years, was the scene of a raid. Constables arrested two whites and two negroes, charged with illegal liquor selling.

WASHINGTON.—During an electrical storm which passed over this community three large tanks of the West Penn Oil Co. at Meadowlands near here, filled with oil, were struck.

WILKESBARRE.—Lying across some live wires at Pittston William M. Wintermute of Scranton, a lineman, was fatally burned, the wires burning his legs and arms to the bone.

NEW CASTLE.—Frank H. Ruby of Beaver Falls sustained perhaps fatal injuries at Mahoningtown. He swung aboard a freight train, his foot slipped and he was dragged several yards.

ALTOONA.—To save the life of a pet fox terrier James Davis, 17 years old, sucked the poison from the wound after the animal had been bitten in the neck by a copperhead snake.

WASHINGTON.—Lawrence Peterson, 16 years old, of Donora, squeezed an old mine cap in a vise. In the explosion that resulted Peterson's face was horribly burned and one eye was destroyed.

MONONGAHELA.—A new 50-ton open hearth furnace at Page Woven Wire Fence Co. was lighted recently. Mrs. F. S. Ougheltree acted as sponsor in the firing of the furnace, which was christened "Betsy."

WASHINGTON.—Frenzied by liquor, James Bruse stood at a crowded street corner and emptied a revolver, apparently to see the crowd scatter. One bullet passed through a window. No one was injured.

MONONGAHELA.—J. Vernon Smith, a brakeman on the Monongahelia division of the Pittsburg, Virginia & Charleston railroad, was thrown from a car and so badly injured that he died at Memorial hospital here.

WASHINGTON.—With the marriage of Miss Sara McNelly and Miss Flora Sharpe, 76 members of the Sunday school class of H. W. Donehoo, at Cross Creek, this county, have embarked upon the matrimonial sea.

HARRISBURG.—The Pennsylvania-Jamestown exposition commission held its final meeting recently. After paying all bills the commission will have about $18,000 of its $100,000 appropriation to return to the state.

KITTANNING.—J. A. Ray, land agent for the Pittsburg-Buffalo Co., filed here the satisfaction papers canceling a $3,000,000 mortgage against the company in Allegheny, Armstrong, Greene and Washington counties.

CONNELLSVILLE.—As the result of an explosion of one of the 13 naphtha tanks of the American Reduction Co. along the Baltimore & Ohio railroad, near West Newton, four employes were seriously burned, one fatally.

FRANKLIN.—Miss Mary Hubler, aged 36, pulled the plug out of an alcohol barrel to see what it was like inside. The vapor ignited from a lighted match in her hand and she was severely burned in the explosion which followed.

HARRISBURG.—Food Commissioner Foust in an address at Erie is reported as saying that eight years ago 80 per cent of the food specimens purchased for testing in the open markets of this state were adulterated. The vigorous work of the inspectors has reduced this percentage at the present time to between three and five per cent.

GREENVILLE.—Trouble at the Filer mines at Pardoe following the strike in the Butler-Mercer coal fields and the determination of many operators to work non-union culminated in the burning of the pump house and hoist by incendiaries.

SCRANTON.—The International Text Book Co. at its annual meeting decided to push its correspondence school work in foreign lands. A $20,000,000 concern, known as the International Educational Publication Society, has been formed to carry on the work.

FRANKLIN.—Charles A. Shafer, aged 52, proprietor of the Franklin Ice Co., committed suicide by swallowing carbolic acid.

MONONGAHELA.—Wilbur Wilhelm, 25 years old, employed at the Naomi mine, near Bellevernon, was instantly killed in the mine by coming in contact with a live wire.

ALLENTOWN.—Gasoline spilled by a boy, who wiped it off with a rag and set the rag on fire, almost caused the destruction of the village of Baumanstown, Carbon county.

GREENSBURG.—Vincent Pustett, aged 68, a native of Bavaria, for 35 years known throughout western Pennsylvania and eastern Ohio as an eccentric bookbinder, is dead here.

HARRISBURG.—W. B. Harman, a foreman of the Pennsylvania railroad, was struck on the head by a tie while directing some work near this city. His skull was crushed and he died in a few hours.

GREENSBURG.—Anello Costable, 21 years old, an Italian, was shot through the lung at Mount Pleasant during a dispute over a $1.50 board bill with Nicola Visconti. He may die. Visconti escaped.

GREENSBURG.—Beaten and kicked about the head, John Petro, aged 22, died at the Westmoreland hospital after lingering unconscious since June 16. He was attacked by men at his boarding house.

PHILADELPHIA.—With every appearance of having been strangely poisoned by drinking ale, W. H. Wilson, a physician, was suddenly stricken ill at his home and died shortly after being admitted to a hospital.

BUTLER.—A severe wind storm swept Marwood and the countryside, causing damage estimated at several thousand dollars. Five oil rigs were leveled, acres of timber destroyed, buildings blown over and telegraph wires along the West Penn railway torn down.

PHILADELPHIA.—The body of Mrs. Annie Cassner, aged 27 years, was found by the police lying on the sidewalk with a stab wound in the heart. A bloody butcher knife found lying in the street a square from the body led to the arrest of Robert Brown, aged 22 years, a butcher, who had paid court to Mrs. Cassner before her marriage.

KITTANNING.—Gored by a maddened bull, George Stivanson narrowly missed death. He was one of several Leechburg men camping along Crooked creek, and entered the bull's pasture. It attacked him and gored his left side, making a gash 15 inches long. Before he was rescued the animal had trampled him, inflicting serious injuries.

LOCKPORT.—The government officials have notified boat captains at Olcott Beach, in response to inquiries, that the waters in Lake Ontario will probably not recede this year. They are two feet above the normal level due to the fact that a dam has been constructed in the St. Lawrence. The rise in the water has worked immense damage at the beach.

GREENSBURG.—The suit for damages of G. W. Kiser vs. the Kerbaugh Construction Co. ended, the jury bringing in a verdict for $615. This was the second of 26 suits instituted by residents and property owners of Bradenville as a result of an explosion of dynamite in 1903 that wrecked the little town. In both instances damages have been awarded.

HARRISBURG.—State Health Commissioner Dixon has hent a letter to the state pharmaceutical examining board regarding the free distribution of anti-toxin in which he emphatically answers in the affirmative the complaint that the distribution is not worth while. The commissioner quotes many figures to prove that the distribution is highly beneficial.

BEAVER FALLS.—George W. Murton, ager 55, a well-known citizen, committed suicide by shooting himself through the head, dying instantly. Ill health and despondency were the cause.

BEAVER FALLS.—William Bloomfield, a one-armed man, saw 8-year-old Chris Kaercher, son of a local policeman, struggling in the Beaver river and plunged in after the drowning boy. Although handicapped by his clothing and having but one arm he managed to get the lad ashore.

KIDNEY TROUBLE

"5-DROPS" taken internally, rids the blood of the poisonous matter and acids which are the direct causes of these diseases. Applied externally it affords almost instant relief from pain, while a permanent cure is being effected by purifying the blood, dissolving the poisonous substance and removing it from the system.

DR. S. D. BLAND
Of Brewton, Ga., writes:
"I had been a sufferer for a number of years with Lumbago and Rheumatism in my arms and legs, and tried all the remedies that I could gather from medical works, and also consulted with a number of the best physicians, but found nothing that gave the relief obtained from "5-DROPS." I shall prescribe it in my practice for rheumatism and kindred diseases."

FREE

If you are suffering with Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Kidney Trouble or any kindred disease, write to us for a trial bottle of "5-DROPS," and test it yourself.

"5-DROPS" can be used any length of time without acquiring a "drug habit," as it is entirely free of opium, cocaine, alcohol, laudanum, and other similar ingredients.

Don't Use a Scarecrow

To Drive Away the Mail Order Wolf

You can drive him out quickly if you use the mail order houses' own weapon—advertising. Mail order concerns are spending thousands of dollars every week in order to get trade from the home merchants. Do you think for a minute they would keep it up if they didn't get the business? Don't take it for granted that every one within a radius of 25 miles knows what you have to sell, and what your prices are. Nine times out of ten your prices are lower, but the customer is influenced by the up-to-date advertising of the mail order house. Every article you advertise should be described and priced. You must tell your story in an interesting way, and when you want to reach the buyers of this community use the columns of this paper.

falls short of its desired effect if addressed to a small crowd of interested listeners. Mr. Business Man, are you wasting your ammunition on the small crowd that would trade with you anyway, or do you want to reach those who are not particularly interested in your business? If you do, make your appeal for trade to the largest and most intelligent audience in your community, the readers of this paper. They have countless wants. Your ads will be read by them, and they will become your customers. Try it and

Taft's Religion,

As the outcome of attempts to injure Taft's candidacy by charging that he was an atheist the American people learned last week what had not been generally known in the past, that Secretary Taft is a Unitarian. He comes of a Unitarian family, his father and mother, like himself, belonging to the Unitarian Church. In Washington he attends the Unitarian Church at Fourteenth and L streets. But the Secretary is very far from being a denominationalist. He sometimes goes to St. John's Episcopal Church in Washington, which his wife attends, and is much interested in the Union Chapel of the Presbyterian and Episcopal Churches at Murray Bay, where he spends his summers. No who one heard Mr. Taft's speech on work of missions in the East but knows that the Secretary of War is in true sympathy with missionary work, regardless of denomination. Three Presidents of the United States have been Unitarians, the two Adamses and Millard Fillmore, although John Adams might be regarded as a Congregationalist since the Unitarians and Trinitarians had not divided in his time. Seven Presidents, Washington, Madison, Monroe, William Henry Harrison, Tyler, Taylor and Arthur, were Episcopalians. Jackson, Buchanan, and Benjamin Harrison were Presbyterians. Lincoln attended a Presbyterian church, as did Cleveland, whose father was a Presbyterian minister. Johnson, also, attended the Presbyterian church occasionally. McKinley and Hayes were Methodists. Polk, on his death-bed, was baptized by a Methodist minister, and Grant regularly attended a Methodist church, although he was not a church member. Roosevelt, true to his ancestry, is Dutch Reformed, as was Van Buren. The Congregationalists beside John Adams, are represented by Franklin Pierce, Garfield belonged to the Disciples' Church, of which he had once been a preacher. Jefferson has been accused of being an atheist. Randall, however, says that he was a believer in Christianity. Jefferson was broadly tolerant. If Mr. Taft is elected, the seven Presidents from Garfield on will have been connected with six different denominations, a commentary on the religious situation in America. If Bryan is elected the number of denominations will be only five, as Bryan is a Presbyterian.—Christian Work and Evangelist.

HON. L. TAGGART AGAIN OBJECTS.

Emporium, Pa., July 6th, 1908.

EDITOR PRESS:—

Dear Sir:—Of all that has been written or said on the paving question, the letter of C. W. Shafer in this week's issue of the PRESS, contains more good common sense than all the talk and writing I have heard or seen; and it should be carefully read and studied by every citizen of our town and especially the Town Council, and more especially by a very few wise men whose names I could give but will not I trust and hope that anything I may say in this short letter will not give offense to any one, for I certainly do not so intend it, but that every citizen should have the right to give expression to their views on all questions affecting the public cannot be gainsaid and friends should be careful and not misjudge.

So in giving vent to my views in regard to the law, which as I understand, it requires the citizens living along a certain piece of paving, providing two-thirds of them favor it; to pave or rebuild said street or highway in such distance as said two-thirds may dictate and the said one-third of the people, must provide one-third of the money required for said work, and material whether they are able to do so, or not. I believe it to be a disgrace to any town, county or state to permit such a law to stand on its statute books, and no man in our town or county, who will not under his own signature say he will use every effort possible for its repeal need look for my vote. I don't believe in placing the poor man absolutely in the hands of the rich. Now, to illustrate, let us take any section of street in our Borough along which there are living thirty-one people (property holders) and let us suppose twenty-one of these people are abundantly able to pave, or do any other work, that their fancy would dictate, the other ten are poor, or comparatively so, simply under good times able by strict economy to find food and clothing and care for themselves and little ones. But the twenty-one are rich and they say "let us have the street paved with pure gold and their families clothed in fine linen," but, says the ten poor, "we are not able to pay our share of this work"; away with you then you have no business here—let some one have your property, even at a sacrifice, who can and will pave. I can't believe it to be so, but was told that two of our Borough officials made smiliar remarks about those who are living along Fourth street, where they are agitating the paving question, and just in this connection, I desire to call attention to the fact that it has been reported to me that a number of the people living along the highway, where the paving question is being agitated, have been offered help quite sufficient to pay their share of the paving, if they would withdraw their opposition. Gentlemen, I don't say you have done this, but I do say that you can't afford to do it, and please don't.

Now, gentlemen, I desire to say as regards myself, that while I have nearly twice as much to pave as any one along the line that I could possibly furnish my share and still remain outside of the poor house so long as I live, which I don't expect will be very long, but kindly let me say to you just here that I myself have in property a few thousand dollars, every dollar of which has come to me as the result of fifty-five years of honest, upright toil. I say fifty-five years for I was less than ten years old when left to care for myself, and now to be called on to furnish one-third of the cost of building and maintaining the highway in front of my property, as I view it, is the most unjust demand that could possibly be made. No! No! don't let it go out that this Borough has asked individuals to build her roads, but let the Borough officials look carefully into the matter and if then they think it proper to pave any part of our streets let there be a tax levied sufficient to do so. Go about it in a business way and pave.

Hon. Josiah Howard called on me a few days ago, evidently to point out to me my duty in regard to paving and in a very few words will give to the people the only reason he gave to me as to why we should pave. He said to me, Mr. Taggart you know we should join hands and do all in our power to keep the industries we have at work, and now he says "Mr. Taggart, you know if we would pave this street it would furnish ten days work for our brick factory." If I ever had anything come near taking my breath, this was it. What, I said, to myself, you ask me to appropriate some six hundred hard earned (for the little money I have was not handed down to me) dollars simply to keep the brick plant running. So excited was I that I did not even ask him how much stock he had in the brick plant or asked him to call again, for I think it the first and only call he ever made me, but before he left he straightened up and said with a voice unmistakeable "but I hope they won't pave in front of my house." Then it was that I came so near calling out at the top of my voice Hip! Hip! Horray! And now in closing I will ask in all kindness for our council and people to read carefully Mr. Shafer's letter for every word he has written is a good business view of the matter.

Truly,
L. TAGGART.

The PRESS regrets that Hon. L. Taggart makes the above reference to Hon. Josiah Howard, because we have reason to know that he is laboring under a mistaken illusion. No one, or fifty, citizens has done more or donated as much to improve and build up our town and county. When he personally bore hundreds of dollars expense in improving our town no one objected, but now that others are asked by a majority of the property owners between Odd Fellows block and Wood street, up jumps objectors and resort to all kinds of schemes to defeat the will of a majority. Right will prevail.

ANOTHER NEW YORKER ON DECK.

Editor Press:—

The discussion in the Emporium papers relative to the paving of Fourth street appears to have reached a point wherein personalities are indulged. This question, as every other affecting the interests of an entire community, should be freely and fully discussed, but in an impersonal manner. At the outset, it is certainly of the greatest wisdom to view the subject as an economical question solely, entirely relieved of any feeling of sentiment or pride. The cost of paving the suggested portion of the street will largely fall upon widows and men in the late years of their lives, many of whom can ill afford the expense. It is argued that such paving will add to the value of the abutting properties To whom does such additional value accrue? Certainly not to the prospective purchaser, and if not to a purchaser, it does not extend to the owner. The value of real estate is based upon its earning or saving properties. It is an indisputable fact that Emporium real estate has been bringing the utmost that can be obtained from rentals. A paved street adjoining a business property in your borough will not command for that property any higher rent. Neither will a man or body of men looking for a location for a new industry consent the quicker to establish a business within your town because of a paved Fourth street. To one still interested in the welfare of the Borough and its citizens, it occurs that before any paving is done, a proper and sufficient drainage system should be installed. Your town is admirably situated to have complete and efficient drainage of surface water by other means than a sewer. The railroad being built along about the middle line between the stream and the base of the mountain, and being several feet higher than the streets immediately north, is a constant obstruction to perfect drainage. Proper openings under the railroad track and guttering over all the town should be built at once to take all surface waters into the stream. By this means many of the wet and unsanitary holes in the town will become real estate in fact as well as in name. Without such drainage that portion of the town lying between Fifth street and the railroad will continue to be, as now, the cesspool of the side hill portion, and any paved portions will be continually covered with filth and mud.

That paved streets which are not always kept clean are very unsanitary, cannot be successfully contended. With animal offal being constantly placed thereon and allowed to remain, and drying quickly because of the heat retained by the brick or other paving materials, the dangerous particles are carried by each wind to the human body, many times far away from the contaminated point. Thus to avoid such unsanitary conditions, every city employs a large body of street cleaners who constantly sweep and remove all refuse, leaving the surface as clean as possible. Even with such attention at times of high wind the dust storms are often much worse in the cities than are experienced in your borough. This condition is not so aggravated where the streets are macadamized or built in the ordinary way, for the base readily absorbs the offensive matter which quickly assimilatess with the soil.

The agitation for the paving of town streets is a laudable effort under some circumstances, but in the present case is ill advised, because of the lack of proper surface drainage, the inability of the borough officials to create the expense of properly clearing the surface so paved, and the unnecessary and heavy burden it will be upon the owners of real estate along the proposed section, without adequate return to the entiire community.

Emporium has greater municipal ills than the unpaved Fourth street. Instead of creating dissension over such a subject which leaves a sting, the citizens should endeavor by closer communion to induce outside capital to become interested in industries to be established within your town or county.

There are a number of good industries that might be started, either with home or foreign capital. A few suggestions recently made in your papers are not at all practical. Furthermore the good name of the town is well advertised when its citizens and officers extend equal justice to all, as well to the taxpayers and citizens, as to the owners of an enterprise.

When the business is built up upon that substantial basis, then can be argued the increase in value of real estate, because the price of real property is also governed by that old law of supply and demand, and paving alone will not create the required demand.

Therefore, the investing of a like amount of money proposed as necessary for the suggested paving in a good industry will bring a greater good to a greater number.

Let not your pride carry you to the extent of spending your neighbors' money.

Respectfully,
C. W. SHAFFER.

NATURE TELLS YOU.

As Many an Emporium Reader Knows Too Well.

When the kidneys are sick,
Nature tells you all about it.
The urine is nature's calendar.
Infrequent or too frequent action;
Any urinary trouble tells of kidney ills.

Emporium people testify to this.

Mrs. E. L. Rent, living on Fifth St., Emporium, Pa., says: "Doan's Kidney Pills have been of great benefit to me. I suffered with a disordered condition of the kidneys for years and the secretions were irregular and painful in passage. I suffered with constant backache and pains through my loins and was unable to rest at night on account of these annoyances. When I learned of Doan's Kidney Pills I obtained a box from L. Taggart, the druggist. This remedy gave me almost immediate relief. My back does not ache any more, I am able to sleep well at nights and the other symptoms have disappeared. I obtained more relief in a shorter time from Doan's Kidney Pills that from anything I ever used. This remedy has my hearty endorsement."

Bill to Build More Big Roads to be Drawn.

A bill for the construction of highways between the county seats will be presented to the next Legislature and it is expected that it will carry out the road plan of Governor Stuart without encountering any constitutional objections such as might arise should a bill be presented for the rebuilding of the old State road alone. A bill designating a single road would be classed as special legislation.

The Governor's plan, however, could be carried out by the passage of a bill authorizing construction of roads between county seats and making a substantial appropriation therefor. The old State road of which he spoke in his Philadelphia address ran from Philadelphia to Pittsburg.

None of the state roads touched Harrisburg or Carlisle until later, when a change in line was made running from Lancaster to Harrisburg by way of Middletown, following a road which was built before the Revolution and used by people who wanted to bring merchandise from Philadelphia and Lancaster to reach Carlisle and other towns. They crossed the Susquehanna at Harris Ferry, the enterprise which led to the founding of the State Capital in 1785 by John Harris, the younger son of John Harris, the settler on the banks of the Susquehanna.

The republican state platform is committed to the reconstruction of roads, a plank calling for the building of sections between the county seats having been adopted with a hurrah. This project would not only cause the reconstruction of almost the entire length of the old State road but would give a vast stimulus to road building all over the commonwealth, besides enlisting the interest and aid of many counties which have been demanding just such improvements.

It is believed that a bill for roads between county seats would go through the Legislature easily, especially if the Governor was known to be favorable of it.

Progress in Prosperity.

As a sequel to and confirmation of the statement of E. H. Gary, chairman of the board of directors of the United States Steel Corporation, that business conditions are distinctly better and improving from week to week or from day to day we have the report of the American Railway Association on idle cars, says Pittsburg Gazette-Times. On April 29 the railroads reporting to this association had 413,338 cars idle. On June 10 the numher had been reduced to 349,567. On June 24 there had been a further material reduction, the total number of idle cars on that date being down to 312,847. The freight movement is, of course, irrefutable proof of business conditions. The evidence of the car report is that business is increasing and that the pace is being accelerated. In the six weeks period from April 29 to June 10, 63,711 idle cars were put to work, an average of 21,257 for each two weeks of the time. In the subsequent two weeks 36,720 idle cars were put to work, being 15,462 more than the average number re-employed during each of these preceeding two-weeks periods.

These figures show rapidly increasing progress in prosperity. The re-employment of a total of more than 100,000 freight cars in less than two and one-half months means that in that time thousands of railroad men who had been idle were put to work. Re-employment of train crews was not all of it, for the increased movement of cars made it necessary to employ more shopmen, freight handlers, clerks and others. Back of this there was the re-employment of workmen in occupations which produced the freight for the railroads to carry, and of auxiliary forces brought into action thereby. Each workman who is given employment becomes a more active consumer and thus causes a demand which can only be satisfied by the employment of others to supply it. This familiar process has been going on since April 29, when the maximum number of cars out of employment was reached. April 29 may be regarded, therefore, as approximately the date upon which the sun of prosperity reached the nadir, since which time it has been moving toward the zenith.

Over Thirty-Five Years.

In 1872 there was a great deal of diarrhoea, dysentery and cholera infantum. It was at this time that Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy was first brought into use. It proved more successful than any other remedy or treatment, and has for thirty-five years maintained that record. From a small beginning its sale and use has extended to every part of the United States and to many foreign countries. Nine druggists out of ten will recommend it when their opinion is asked, although they have other medicines that pay them a greater profit. It can always be depended upon, even in the most severe and dangerous cases. For sale by L. Taggart.

SERIAL STORY

LANGFORD of the THREE BARS

By KATE AND VIRGIL D. BOYLES

(Copyright by A. C. McClurg & Co., 1907.)

SYNOPSIS.

Cattle thieves despoiling ranches of South Dakota. George Williston, small ranchman, runs into rendezvous of thieves on island in Missouri river. They have stolen cattle from Three Bar ranch. Langford visits Williston and his daughter and Williston reports what he has seen to Langford, who determines to rid country of thieves. Jesse Black heads outlaws. Langford falls in love with Williston's daughter, but does not tell her so. Louise Dale, court stenographer, and niece of Judge Dale, visits Kemah at request of county attorney, Gordon, to take testimony in preliminary hearing. Gordon falls in love with her. After preliminary examination Williston's home is attacked and defended by his daughter and himself. Outlaws fire building just as Langford and his cowboys arrive. Outlaws carry off Williston but Langford rescues the daughter. Without Willistion evidence against Black is meager, and case seems to be going against the state. Gordon takes a night ride and finds Williston, who has escaped from captors. The courthouse at Kemah burns at night. Williston holds a tea party in his room following court house fire, and Mary Williston and Louise Dale attend. Court convenes in the church, and Williston's testimony is introduced by Gordon. Black, seeing his case lost, makes break for liberty, and escapes. Louise from her hotel room in the night sees a man in the act of shooting Gordon through the window of his room across the street. She arouses Mary who shoots at the would-be assassin, but too late, for Gordon is seriously wounded.

"Doc! Doc Lockhart! Some one send Doc over here quick? Gordon's office. Be quick about it!" he cried, in a loud, firm voice. Then he closed the door and locked it. In response to his call footsteps were heard running. The door was tried. Then came loud knocking and voice demanding admittance.

"No one can come in but Doc," cried Langford through the keyhole. "Send him quick, somebody, for God's sake! Where's Jim Munson? He'll get him here. Quick, I tell you!"

He hastened back to the side of his friend and passed his hand gently over the right side to find the place whence came that heartbreaking drip. Disappointed in their desire to get in men crowded before the window. Louise stepped softly forward and drew the blind between him and the mass of curious faces without. She was very pale, but quiet and self-possessed. She had rallied when Langford had whispered to her that Gordon's heart was still beating. The doctor rapped loudly, calling to Langford to open. Paul admitted him and then stepped out in full sight of all, his hand still on the knob. The late moon was just rising. A faint light spread out before him.

"Boys," he cried, a great grief in his stern voice, "it's murder. Dick Gordon's murdered. Now get—you know what for—and be quick about it!"

They laid him gently on the floor, took off his coat and cut away the blood-soaked shirts. Louise assisted with deft, tender hands. Presently the heavy lids lifted, the gray eyes stared vacantly for a moment—then smiled. Paul bent over him.

"What happened, old man?" the wounded man whispered gropingly. It required much effort to say this little, and a shadow of pain fell over his face.

"Hush, Dick, dear boy," said Langford, with a catch in his voice. "You're all right now, but you mustn't talk. You're too weak. We are going to move you across to the hotel."

"But what happened?" he insisted.

"You were shot, you know, Dick. Keep quiet now! I'm going for a stretcher."

"Am I done for?" the weak voice kept on. But there was no fear in it.

"You will be if you keep on talking like that."

Obeying a sign from the doctor he slipped away and out. Gordon closed his eyes and was still for a long time. His face was white and drawn with suffering.

"Has he fainted?" whispered Louise.

The eyes opened quickly. They fell upon Louise, who had not time to draw away. The shadow of the old sweet smile came and hovered around his lips.

"Louise," he whispered.

"Yes, it is I," she said, laying her hand lightly on his forehead. "You must be good until Paul gets back."

"I'm done for, so the rest of the criminal calendar will have to go over. You can go back to—God's country—sooner than you thought."

"I am not going back to—God's country," said Louise, unexpectedly. She had not meant to say it, but she meant it when she said it.

"Come here, close to me, Louise," said Gordon, in a low voice. He had forgotten the doctor. "You had better—I'll get up if you don't. Closer still. I want you to—kiss me before Paul gets back."

Louise grew white. She glanced hesitatingly at the doctor, timidly at the new lover in the old man. Then she bent over him where he lay stretched on the floor and kissed him on the lips. A great light came into his eyes before he closed them contentedly and slipped into unconsciousness again.

Langford rounded up Jim Munson and sent him across with a stretcher, and then ran upstairs for an extra blanket off his own bed. It was bitterly cold, and Dick must be well wrapped. On the upper landing he encountered Mary alone. Something in her desolate attitude stopped him.

"What's the matter, Mary?" he demanded, seizing her hands.

"Nothing," she answered, dully. "How is he?"

"All right, I trust and pray, but hurt terribly, wickedly."

He did not quite understand. Did she love Gordon? Was that why she looked so heart-broken? Taking her face in his two hands, he compelled her to look at him straight.

"Now tell me," he said.

"Did I kill him?" she asked.

"Kill whom?"

"Why, him—Jesse Black."

Then he understood.

"Mary, my girl, was it you? Were those last shots yours?" All the riotous love in him trembled on his tongue.

"Did I?" she persisted.

"God grant you did," he said, solemnly. "There is blood outside the window, but he is gone."

"I don't like to kill people," she said, brokenly. "Why do I always have to do it?"

He drew her to him strongly and held her close against his breast.

"You are the bravest and best girl on earth," he said. "My girl—you are my girl, you know—hereafter I will do all necessary killing for—my wife."

He kissed the sweet, quivering lips as he said it.

"Why, Jim!" cried Langford in surprise. "I thought you had gone with the stretcher."

"I did go," said Jim, swallowing hard. He shifted nervously from one spurred foot to the other. "But I came back."

He looked at Langford beseechingly.

"Boss, I want to see you a minute, ef—Mary don't mind."

"I will come with you, Jim, now," said Langford with quick apprehension.

"Mary"—Jim turned away and stared unseeingly down the staircase—"go back to your room for a little while. I will call for you soon. Keep up your courage."

"Wait," said Mary, quietly. There were unsounded depths of despair in her voice, thought it was so clear and low. "There was another shot. I remember now. Jim, tell me!"

Jim turned. The rough cowboy's eyes were wet—for the first time in many a year.

"They—hope he won't die, Mary, girl. Your father's shot bad, but he ain't dead. We think Black did it after he run from Gordon's office. We found him on the corner."

The Little Posse Started on Its Journey.

Langford squared his broad shoulders—then put strong, protecting arms around Mary. Now was he her all.

"Come, my darling, we will go to him together."

She pushed him from her violently.

"I will go alone. Why should you come? He is mine. He is all I have—there is no one else. Why don't you go? You are big and strong—can't you make that man suffer for my father's murder? Jim, take me to him."

She seized the cowboy's arm, and they went out together and on down the stairs.

Langford stood still a moment, following them with his eyes. His face was white. He bent his head. Jim, looking back, saw him thus, the dull light from the hall-lamp falling upon the bent head and the yellow hair. When Langford raised his head, his face, though yet white, bore an expression of concentrated determination.

He, too, strode quickly down the stairs.

CHAPTER XXI.
The Outlaw's Last Stand.

In the morning the sheriff went to the island. He reported the place deserted. He made many other trips. Some times he took a deputy with him; more often he rode unaccompanied. Richard Gordon lay helpless in a burning fever, with Paul Langford in constant and untiring attendance upon him. George Williston was a sadly shattered man.

"I met Black on the corner west of Gordon's office," he explained, when he could talk. "I had not been able to sleep, and had been walking to tire my nerves into quiet. I was coming back to the hotel when I heard Black's shot and then Mary's. I ran forward and met Black on the corner, running. He stopped, cried out, 'You, too, damn you,' and that's the last I knew until the boys picked me up."

These were the most interested—Langford, Gordon, Williston. Had they been in the count, things might have been different. It is very probable a posse would have been formed for immediate pursuit. But others must do what had been better done had it not been for those shots in the dark. There was blood outside Gordon's window; yet Black had not crawled home to die. He had not gone home at all,—a least, that is what the sheriff said. No one had seen the convicted man after his desperate and spectacular exit from the court-room—no one at least but Louise, Mary, and her father. Mary's shot had not killed him, but it had saved Richard Gordon's life, which was a far better thing. It was impossible to track him out of town, for the cattle had trampled the snow in every direction.

The authorities could gather no outside information. The outlying claims and ranches refuted indignantly any hint of their having given aid or shelter to the fugitive, or of having any cognizance whatsoever regarding his possible whereabouts. So the pursuit, at first hot and excited, gradually wearied of following false leads,—contented itself with desultory journeys when prodded thereto by the compelling power of public opinion,—finally ceased altogether even as a pretence.

One of the first things done following the dramatic day in court had been to send the officers out to the little shanty in the valley where the half-breed lay dead across the threshold. A watch was also set upon this place; but no one ever came there.

August had come again, and Judge Dale was in Kemah to hear a court case.

Langford had ridden in from the ranch on purpose to see Judge Dale. His clothes were spattered with mud. There had been a succession of storms, lasting for several days; last night a cloud had burst out west somewhere. All the creeks were swollen.

"Judge, I believe Jesse Black has been on that island of his all the time."

"What makes you think so, Langford?"

"Because our sheriff is four-flushing—he always was in sympathy with the gang, you know. Besides, where else can Black be?"

Dale puckered his lips thoughtfully.

"What have you heard?" he asked.

"Rumors are getting pretty thick that he has been seen in that neighborhood on several occasions. It is my honest belief he has never left it."

"What did you think of doing about it, Langford?"

"I want you to give me a bench warrant, judge. I am confident that I can get him. It is the shame of the county that he is still at large."

"You have to deal with one of the worst and most desperate outlaws in the United States. You must know it will be a very hazardous undertaking, granting your surmises to be correct, and fraught with grave peril for some one."

"I understand that fully."

"This duty is another's, not yours."

"But that other is incompetent."

"My dear fellow," said the judge, rising and laying his hand on Langford's big shoulder, "do you really want to undertake this?"

"I certainly do."

"Then I will give you the warrant, gladly. You are the one man in the state to do it—unless I except the gallant little deputy marshal. You know the danger. I admire your grit, my boy. Get him if you can; but take care of yourself. Your life is worth so much more than his. Who will you take with you?"

"Munson, of course. He will go in spite of the devil, and he's the best man I know for anything like this. Then I thought of taking the deputy-sheriff. He's been true blue all along, and has done the very best possible under the conditions.'

"Very good. Take Johnson, too. He'll be glad to go. He's the pluckiest little fighter in the world,—not a cowardly hair in his head."

So it was agreed, and the next morning, bright and early, the little posse, reinforced by others who had earnestly solicited the privilege of going along, started out on its journey. The rains were over, but the roads were heavy. In many places, they were forced to walk their mounts. No one but the initiated know what gumbo mud means. Until they took to the hills, the horses could scarcely lift their feet, so great would be the weight of the sticky black earth which clung in immense chunks to their hoofs. When they struck the hills, it was better and they pressed forward rapidly. Once only the sheriff had asserted that he had run across the famous outlaw. Black had resisted savagely and had escaped, sending back the bold taunt that he would never be taken alive. Such a message might mean death to some of the plucky posse now making for the old-time haunts of the desperado.

The Fool of the Family.

Primogeniture had engaged so much of a young American's hostile attention that his companion, who happened to be the heir to an earldom, felt constrained to apologize for it. "It has its advantages," he said, mildly; "it makes but one fool in a family, you know." "All my younger brothers 'amount' to something, as you Americans put it," he further explained. "One of them is in the army, another in the navy, and the third lives and works in the east end of London."—Youth's Companion.

FARM AND GARDEN

BOX HOLDER FOR BUSH BERRIES

Provides Receptacle for Berries and Leaves Both Hands Free to Pick.

Make a box of crate material 6½x7 inches, and three inches deep. Sharpen a wagon box rod at the lower end and six inches from the top flatten the rod and punch two holes two inches apart, the size of copper rivets. The box is then riveted to the rod and when it is placed in the ground both hands are free for picking.

Use of the device shown in the accompanying illustration above described, says the Prairie Farmer, will be found to add a good many quarts of berries in the course of a day's picking.

FERTILIZING THE ORCHARD.

What Prof. Voorhees Thinks Is the Best Treatment.

Prof. Voorhees spoke on fertilizers for fruit growers at the late meeting of the New Jersey Horticultural society. He called minerals and water the two elements of most importance to the fruit grower. Greater care should be taken in the use of stable manure in orchards than with any other kind of fertilizer. The original soil is a very important factor, and the fruit that grows well on one will not grow to a good maturity on another.

A mixture of one-third ground bone, acid phosphate and nitrate of potash is good for most kinds of fruit; the quantity to be applied may be regulated by the needs of the soil and crop. An annual application of 1,000 pounds per acre in the early life of an orchard would not be too much; also a light application each year. The amount to be used must be determined by the grower.

Cover crops should be used, he says, but not allowed to mature, as they take too much moisture from the trees; they should be plowed down while in a green state to supply humus, from which to secure nitrogen for future use.

WET AND STICKY SOIL.

Let It Alone Until It Can Be Safely Worked.

A Minnesota correspondent of the Farmers' Review says: "The ground is too wet and sticky to work to advantage." The wise thing to do with such land is to let it alone till it dries out. The temptation to work such soil should be resisted at all hazards. If the soil sticks to the implements it is a sign that the soil particles will stick together if they are pressed together during the working. That is the way clods are made. It is the way also that bricks are made, even when they are made without straw or sand. Many a good field has been plowed when in that condition and has afterward proved the despair of the farmer. The air and sun will gradually pull enough of the moisture out of the top soil to do away with the stickiness.

ABOUT THE FARM.

A farmer is known by the tools he uses.

Manure is never so valuable as when fresh.

Weeds often take more plant food than the crop.

Spray your potato vines with bordeaux mixture and a good arsenate, not once or twice but at least three or five times.

Sweet potatoes raised from cuttings of the vines from the early planted ones make potatoes that keep better than those grown from the early spring plants.

Thistles spread only from the seed. If the plant is not allowed to go to seed it will not spread over the pasture. The best time to cut the weed is just before it comes into bloom and before there is any possibility of the seed maturing.

Planting Potatoes.

A reader wants to know when potatoes should be planted if they are grown extensively. At the same time they are planted when grown on a small scale. The right time is usually as early in the spring as the ground can be properly worked, and not before.

MAKING OAT HAY.

What the Experience of One Farmer Has Taught Him.

When the hull or the grain on top of the head begins to turn yellow is the time I begin to make oat hay. At this time these top grains are in the dough state, and the remainder is mostly in the milk, and the stalks and blades are still green, writes a correspondent in the Farmers' Voice. While as a usual thing stock does not relish oat hay as much as mixed timothy or clover, I find it to be a good substitute.

It must be well cured, as it is one of the worst crops to draw dampness, heat and mold. It should never be put into the barn when the least tough or damp. I have made a good deal of oat hay and find it fairly good if cut at the right time and properly handled. Many farmers allow it to get too ripe to make the best of hay. When allowed to almost mature there will be a greater amount of grain, it can be more easily cured, there will be less danger from molding, but it will not be oat hay; it will be oats in the straw. When handled this way the animals will eat the grain readily, but will only eat the straw when driven to it by hunger and will get but little good out of it. Nor should they be cut while too green, as in that case it will be very hard to cure sufficiently, while green oats cut in the milk makes very good feed for milk cows, but the curing is very difficult, owing to the long period necessary for properly drying and the difficulty of getting good weather. It is absolutely necessary that the fodder be thoroughly dried before storing.

When the surface of the ground is smooth I cut the oats with a mower, and let them remain several days, then turn them over, repeating this operation until thoroughly dry. It usually takes me about a week to cure my oats properly. When the weather is not favorable and I fear a rain before they have time to dry in the windows, I build very large cocks, and build them so as to turn the water as much as possible. These cocks will go through a sweat and may stand if necessary two or even three weeks, after which they must be stacked or put into the barn. When unloading every two loads can be salted liberally and tramped down, it will then go through another sweat. Such hay when fed with clover will prove excellent for horses and cattle.

MAKING CREAM CHEESE.

How the Farmer's Family Can Enjoy Choice Home-Made Article.

We make our own cheese for home use, and as there are perhaps some who do not know how to make this highly nutritious food I will give our method, writes a farmer in Farm and Home. To make a three-pound cheese that is good after four weeks, and better with age, we take five gallons milk, cream and all, if it has set for a while, and heat till about milk warm.

We then dissolve one-half of a No. 2 rennet tablet in half a teacupful of cold water, stir it well into the milk, and add one tablespoonful salt to the milk, and then stir. We remove it from the fire and let stand from three to six minutes, when it becomes thick, like clabber. As soon as it becomes solid clabber it is ready to break up. We then stir the clabber, or curd, as it is called, which separates the curd from the whey, and let it stand until the curd settles to the bottom.

With the hand we press the pieces, say one inch thick, put into a crock, and over it pour hot water. It is then stirred with a spoon, and let set till it seems tough, like leather, which will be in about three minutes. We again cut in pieces, as it has run together, salt as for butter, and it is ready to be pressed.

For the press we take a gallon syrup can and melt off both ends, and make ends for the can from one-inch boards to just fit inside. We set the can over one board and line it with a well-greased cloth, long enough to fold over the top. Pour in the curd, fold over the cloth, and put on the other board. It is then set where it can drain, a 15-pound weight is placed on top, left for 24 hours, and then removed from the press. We take off the cloth and grease the cheese, lay it on a plate in a screened box and grease and turn it every day until it is ready to use.

A JOINTED GATE.

A gate that is used much is handy when made with a hinged joint so a person can pass through easily without opening the big gate. When the main gate is to be opened the short brace is lifted with the foot and lodged on a hook. The gate shuts against a short post in the ground and a hook and staple at this place makes it steadier.

A bird hunter, having become enraged at his dog, seized him by the collar, snatched up a stick and administered to him an unmerciful beating. On the fence not far away sat old Lim Jucklin, and he called to the hunter: "By the way, there, when you get through with that dog, and if you ain't in too big a hurry to go somewhere else, I'd like to say something to you. I have an idea that it may do you good."

"I don't know that I've got any too much time for you, old man," the hunter replied.

"Well, I didn't ask for too much time. It won't take me long to tell you what I think."

The hunter came slowly forward, and at the same time two of his companions, having overheard what had been said, came out of the corn field and, speaking pleasantly to the old man, waited for him to proceed with their friend. The dog, true to the instincts of his generous race, came up to renew his promises of eternal fidelity.

"What is it you want with me?" the hunter inquired. "As I said before, I haven't much time."

"Ah, hah," replied the old man, "but you've got the time to quit your business whatever it may be and to come over here and to hunt on my land without ever havin' asked for the permission."

"I beg your pardon, sir; I didn't know this was your land.'

"Yes, that's the trouble with such fellers as you are—you never know. However, I don't mind your huntin' on my land, but as long as I pay taxes on it you shan't beat your dog on it. Don't be impatient, now, and listen a minute to what I've got to say. I don't set myself up as a lecturer, you understand, but once in a while I drop into a talk, if the occasion brings it up, and the occasion happens to do so just at present. Why did you beat the dog?"

"Flushed a bird when he had no business to."

"It come out of his eagerness and his enthusiasm I reckon. And while he was a workin' for you, too. Sometimes you get so excited that you shoot too quick, don't you? Ah, hah, I'll bet you do. But you lay it to the keenness of your blood and don't look on it as a crime. But you think that your dog ought to have more self-control and a readier exercise of reason than you've got. And, as a general thing, I bet he has."

"He's putting it on you, Jim," said one of the companions. "Go ahead, old man, we'll make him take it."

"Oh, there ain't much to take—just a little talk that may not do him any harm. Every man knows that he ought not to be cruel to an animal, but sometimes we know a thing so well that we forget it. Some men have passed all their lives lookin' for a big truth and have overlooked all of the little ones. I just want to ask you this: What has that dog got to look forward to except to please you? In the one of your voice he finds the color of life—dark or light. When you frown it is cloudy weather for him; when you smile it doesn't make any difference to him how the rain pours or how the snow flies. He is ready to go with you. The night can't be too dark nor the wind too bitin'. When you want to go out the most cheerful fire would be uncomfortable for him. Talk about the influence of a man in his family! Talk about ownership! Why, you own the dog's body and he gladly makes you a present of his soul. The Bible teaches us to forgive, and in this the dog is more religious than man. You may say that this comes through fear, but the dog is not afraid to give his life for you; and I don't want to hurt your feelin's here on my own land, but I've always noticed that the feller that will beat a dog will cheat a man if he gets a right good chance."

"Look here, old fellow, you may be going too far. I never cheated a man in my life."

"And I was goin' to add that the man that would beat a dog would also lie—if you give him the chance," said the old man.

"What, and you mean that you have given me the chance?"

The companions began to laugh and old Limuel quietly chuckled. "Well, I'm liberal enough to give a man almost any sort of a chance he may be lookin' for. By the way, what's your business?"

"I run a coal yard."

"Sell coal. Now that can be made as honest a business as any in the world. But don't you sometimes guess at the weight of a ton?"

"Well, not exactly guess at it. I've been in the business so long that I can come pretty close to a ton by looking at it."

"Then you guess at it; and did you ever know one of those close guessers to guess on the wrong side? It's like the man that makes a mistake in givin' change—usually makes it in his own favor. This may be honest, you know—makin' a mistake in your own favor—but it comes out of an underlyin' principle of selfishness. And, before I forget it, let me say that I've always noticed that the feller that beats a dog is one likely in a perfectly honest way to short-change you.

"A man may be honest as to dollars and cents and at the same time cruel. I knew a man who always paid his debts, but who beat his wife. Honesty and gentleness are not always companions. But the cruelty that applies to the dog seems to be different from any other sort. When the dog sees by your countenance or understands from your voice that he has done wrong he throws himself completely on your mercy, and if in his struggles to get away he should bite your hand, the greatest favor you can grant him is to permit him to lick the wound. Just look at that dog now. No man in the hot sun ever thirsted for water more than he thirsts for a kind word from you.

"I was readin' in a book where an old man says to a king: 'You can shorten all my days, but you can't grant me one hour of life.' Over this dog you've got more power than that, for with a word you can kill his soul or bring it to life. You may argue that a dog hasn't got a soul, but when a man is possessed in a full degree of the very qualities exhibited daily by the average dog we speak of the development of his soul. Dogs fight over a bone. Men fight over money. A dog is deceitful in order that he may be more pleasant in the eyes of his master.

"A dog is the only thing that glorifies his slavery. A hoss works for what he eats. He's always got his mind on the stable. A dog works to give pleasure to his master. He is the only animal that enjoys a joke because the man does. He studies a man so close that he is a mind reader. When you get up of a mornin' he knows your temper the moment he sets eyes on you. Old man Cartwright out here declared that his dog knew in a moment when he had professed religion; and Cartwright told me, says he: 'The dog quit chasin' rabbits on Sunday, after this. He'd walk about the yard as solemn as any presidin' elder you ever saw, but the minute I cussed a cow and lost my religion, one Sunday, why the dog he jumped over the fence and started out trackin' a rabbit.' Well, make friends with your truest friend there, and go ahead."

The dog was listening. The hunter turned toward him and smiled. The grateful animal leaped forward with his eyes beaming, strove to embrace his master, and then, with new spirit, sprang over the fence to take up his neglected work. "Old gentleman," said the hunter, "I'm not as bad a fellow as you think I am."

"Oh, I guess you're all right, but you are so bent on your own enjoyment that you don't think enough of others, and I want to say that dogs are others."

WHERE SHE HAD THE BULGE.

Telephone Girl's Great Opportunity to Get Gloriously Even.

"You know that red-headed cashier that had the nerve to complain of me to the boss the other day," said the girl at the telephone desk, to a New York Times writer. "Well, I got even with him, all right. He ain't married, but he's got a best girl. His father owns a shoe factory over in Jersey, and rich—my! Well, she called him up the other afternoon at her usual time. 'Is Mr. Smith there?' she asks, in her most romantickist voice. 'Yes,' I answers, just as honeylike as she. 'It's his wife wants him, isn't it?' With that Miss Girl hung up with such a jerk my ear hurt. Smith goes around wondering why she does not call him up. Every time he dares he says to me: 'Has any one called me on the 'phone, Miss Limit?' With Eczema—Her Limb Peeled and Foot Was Raw—Thought Amputation Was Necessary—Believes Life Saved by Cuticura.

"I have been treated by doctors for twenty-five years for a bad case of eczema on my leg. They did their best, but failed to cure it. My doctor had advised me to have my leg cut off. At this time my leg was peeled from the knee, my foot was like a piece of raw flesh, and I had to walk on crutches. I bought a set of Cuticura Remedies. After the first two treatments the swelling went down, and in two months my leg was cured and the new skin came on. The doctor was surprised and said that he would use Cuticura for his own patients. I have now been cured over seven years, and but for the Cuticura Remedies I might have lost my life. Mrs. J. B. Renaud, 277 Mentana St., Montreal, Que., Feb. 20, 1907."

Cause for Thanks?

It was at a social gathering of one of the mutual improvement societies which help to pass the shining (or otherwise) hour in an edifying manner.

A little singing was to be indulged in by some of the members, and about half-way down the program the name of Miss Molemy-Brown figured. Alas, however, when the time came for her to appear a messenger arrived to say that the lady was suffering from a cold, and, therefore, the chairman had to excuse her to the audience.

"Ladies and gentlemen," he said, "I have to announce that Miss Brown will be unable to sing, as announced, and, therefore, Mr. Green will give us 'A Song of Thanksgiving.' "—Stray Stories.

The elderly matron with the bundles, who was journeying to a point in Wisconsin, and occupied a seat near the middle of the car, had fallen asleep. On the seat in front of her sat a little boy. "Where are we now, Bobby?" she asked.

"I don't know, grandma," answered the little boy.

WIDOWS' PENSIONS under NEW LAW obtained by JOHN W. MORRIS, Washington, D. C.

A. N. K.—C (1908—27) 2237.

I HAVE often wondered what would happen if some of the ladies who unblushingly meet our gaze in the advertising sections of our magazines, and who dress no more warmly in winter than in summer, were to invade the body of their respective publications.

I think that there would be a general rush for tall timber on the part of the self-respecting heroes and heroines and general utility men and women of the stories, because the standard of proper dressing is very different in the first 100 pages of the magazine from what it is in the remaining 250.

No one ever seems to be shocked at seeing ladies walking around in the advertising sections in patent underwear, and perhaps no one ought to be shocked—unless it is bachelors—but suppose you read in a serial of Howells' that "Anna Hamlin was in no danger from pneumonia because she always wore common-sense wearing apparel underneath that which is visible to the outer world" (see how carefully one has to express himself in the body of a magazine?) and a picture of Miss Hamlin were inserted at that place, one taken from the advertising section and with which the whole reading public is familiar. What a chorus of indignant protests would go up from outraged readers at the vulgarization of the magazine.

I tell you that circumstances will continue to alter cases whenever they can—that's what circumstances are for; and if an impudent young hussy strays in from the advertising pages and dares to stand for Anna Hamlin she will be shown her place at once, because the American public will not stand for anything vulgar.

No, indeed!

What would happen if another leading novelist said in the course of his serial "that Grace Hastings attributed her good health to the fact that she always took a cold bath every morning," and the art editor in order to save expense put in that familiar cut of a lady bathing in the Jinkins' portable celluloid bath tub?

Why, Anthony Comstock would foam at the mouth. And rightly so. But we are all so grateful at the absence of dialect in the advertising sections of our magazines that we let that lady stand in her tub throughout the 12 months without uttering a word of protest.

When I was a child I was taught that it was not nice to speak about corsets. If I had to mention them I must call them bodices or stays or—I forget what the third alternative was. I know I used to go out into the backyard and holler "corsets" just because I thought it was pretty awful.

But our advertising men have changed all that. They not only talk about corsets, but they show us pictures of them, and, to go still further, they show us pictures of them in use.

The old convention as to the mention of corsets has also disappeared from fiction and one might easily come across such a sentence as this: "Miss Postlethwaite had a wasp-like waist and there were not wanting those who said her corsets caused her agony."

But what would happen if a picture of Miss Postlethwaite's boudoir were shown with rouge et noir (for the cheeks and eyebrows) on her bureau and she herself fitted into one of Huggem's papier-mache corsets?

I know I'd stop my subscription at once.

Suppose, for an instant, that an artist were told to go to the Metropolitan opera house and draw a picture of the Four Hundred in their boxes, six in a box, making something like 67 boxes—with the lids off. Suppose that instead of drawing them in proper evening dress—a dress requiring 85 degrees Fahr.—he used a lot of pictures from the advertising section and put them in Jigger flannels, would he keep his position on the staff a moment? No, of course not. That would be a case where to put on more clothes would be to spoil the picture, and no one would recognize the Four Hundred at an opera with arctic habiliments upon them. An artist must be true to nature and he must not be vulgar.

A friend of mine who has no regard for people's feelings actually cut out a number of the advertisements in the back of a magazine that has led us on to a higher civilization for 50 years or more, and when I saw he had done it I applauded him. I said: "Good, old man; they're better out." But the graceless chap with diabolical ingenuity fitted each flannel lady and each custodian of the bath into drawing rooms devised by the staff artists of that magazine and I blushed for a good half hour. We Americans will not stand for semi-nudity in the wrong place. It's all very well at the opera or at a ball or a swagger dinner, but in the body of a reputable magazine the day will never come when it will be considered respectable. And the advertisers themselves will be the first to agree with me

Back to your celluloid tub, oh, lady of the bath! We who are reading the serials will not look upon you.

MR. OIL CONSUMER—

Don't You Think You Have Been Fooled Long Enough?

Is there any justice in your paying 50c to 75c per gallon for the same grade of Cylinder Oil that another man gets for 25c to 30c per gallon? When you pay those high prices you are simply "getting the hooks." You are paying $4.00 to $5.00 per day for livery bills the oil agent puts on his expense book. You are paying the feed bills for team, agent, and driver, and you are paying the agent's commission besides, and some of the agents get a pretty good rakeoff. All of the above comes out of you. IS IT FAIR? You can buy at the same figure any large buyer in the manufacturing districts pays by ordering from the manufacturer direct same as he does.

For over 18 years our goods have been going from "Factory to Consumer" without a cent of expense in the way of agent's commissions, livery hire, feed bills, railroad fare, hotel bills, drinks, or cigars.

We desire to add your name to our list of satisfied customers and offer you the following guaranteed goods at prices mentioned:

PRICE LIST

AJAX CYLINDER OIL—dark wine color, 700 fire test, high viscosity, filtered through bone, charcoal and cotton, no better oil made, the cheapest in the long run.
In barrels .....30c per gal.
In half barrels .....32c per gal.

BUCKEYE CYLINDER OIL—dark color, heavy body, full 650 fire test. You have paid 50c to 60c for Cylinder Oils not as good.
In barrels .....25c per gal.
In half barrels .....27c per gal.

MONARCH RED ENGINE OIL—for engines or general lubrication. You never used a better grade. Barrels and half barrels only.
In barrels .....17c per gal.
In half barrels .....19c per gal.

NON-CARBONIZING GAS ENGINE OIL—made expressly for gas and gasoline engine use. Shipped in barrels and half barrels only.
In barrels .....21c per gal.
In half barrels .....23c per gal.

POLAR CUP GREASE or (HARD OIL)—soft, medium or hard.
In 25 or 50 lb. tins .....6c per lb.
In 100 lb. kegs .....5c per lb.

DARK CRANK PIN GREASE, same price as CUP GREASE.
DARK GEAR GREASE in 25 lb. pails, 3c per lb.

We make correspondingly low prices on Boiler Compounds, Belt Dressings or Special Oils, and we do not ask you to send any money in advance; would rather you would take the 90 days' time so you can test the goods before paying for them.

The above prices are f. o. b. Cleveland, Ohio; no extra charge for packages. Every gallon or pound guaranteed perfectly satisfactory, you to be the judge.

We are responsible. If you doubt it, ask the First National Bank, Cleveland, Ohio, Dun or Bradstreet.

Send in your order NOW, but do not pay us until 90 days from date of shipment.

A CASE IN POINT.

Why the Postmaster Leaned Toward the Sheriff.

There is a town in northern New Hampshire where the families have intermarried to such an extent that it is difficult for an outsider to make the least criticism on one person without the danger of offending some of his family connections. When an unfortunate visitor commented on this fact to Mr. Corbin, the postmaster, Mr. Corbin nodded violently.

"Bill Harmon, that's our sheriff, complained of that no longer ago than last week," said he.

"You see, it took him more'n a fortnight to arrest Nate Giddings because Nate got wind that he was wanted on a little matter o' selling hard cider, and he went on a round o' visits among his relatives—aunts, nephews-in-law and I don't know what all—and 'twasn't till he'd had his fun and went back home to his wife that Bill could make the arrest without seeming to kind o' butt in, as you might say, and spoil the reunions."

"I should think he would make a queer kind of sheriff," said the visitor, "waiting all that time for sentimental reasons and then arresting a man when he went home just because his poor wife wasn't a relation!"

Mr. Corbin drew himself up and assumed a remote expression.

"That's as you look at it," he said in a chilly tone. "I may be a mite prejudiced in Bill's favor, as he married my son-in-law's youngest sister. Anything that concerns him concerns me, you understand."

CONQUERORS CONQUERED.

The Fate of Alexander, Hannibal, Caesar and Napoleon.

It is a remarkable and instructive fact that the careers of four of the most renowned characters that ever lived closed with violent or mournful deaths.

Alexander, after looking down from the dizzy heights of his ambition upon a conquered world and weeping that there were no more to conquer, died of intoxication in a scene of debauch or, as some suppose, by poison mingled in his wine.

Hannibal, whose name carried terror to the heart of Rome itself, after having crossed the Alps and put to flight the armies of the mistress of the world, was driven from his country and died at last of poison administered by his own hands in a foreign land, unlamented and unwept.

Caesar, the conqueror of 800 cities and his temples bound with chaplets dipped in the blood of a million of his foes, was miserably assassinated by those he considered his nearest friends.

Bonaparte, whose mandate kings and emperors obeyed, after filling the earth with the terror of his name, closed his days in lonely banishment upon a barren rock in the midst of the Atlantic ocean.

Such the four men who may be considered representatives of all whom the world calls great and such their end—intoxication or poison, suicide, murdered by friends, lonely exile.

Pointed With Scripture.

A bachelor rector of a western church was alone in his study when his housekeeper brought him the card of one of his parishioners, a spinster of means and charm.

When the lady was seated on the opposite side of his study table the rector looked at her inquiringly, expecting to hear something concerning parish work, in which she was active. To his surprise an embarrassed silence ensued, during which he vainly sought for something to say.

"Dr. Blank," began the lady at last in faltering tones, "do you think—can you fancy conditions under which a—a woman is—justified in proposing?"

"Why, yes," said the rector, after some deliberation.

"Thou art the man!" said the lady resolutely.

She was right.

A Ready Answer.

The captain of a schooner that trades between New York and Savannah is noted for his wit, and on every occasion that offers he loosens his shafts of humor, to the chagrin and embarrassment of its target. Sooner or later the stinger gets stung, and this chronic pun artist is no exception to the rule.

On one occasion when about two days out from New York he approached a group of sailors who were washing the forward deck, and, singling out a big, rawboned Irishman who was experiencing his first taste of sailor's life, he gravely asked, "Can you steer the mainmast down the forecastle stairs?" Quick as a flash came the reply, "Yis, sor; I can if you will stand below and coil it up."—Philadelphia Ledger.

Rough on the Doctor.

One night as a Canadian doctor who lives in eastern Ontario was driving into a village he saw a chap, a little the worse for liquor, amusing a crowd of spectators with the antics of his trick dog. The doctor watched him awhile and said: "Sandy, how do you manage to train your dog? I can't teach mine to do anything."

Sandy, with that simple look in his eyes, said, "Well, you see, doc, you have to know more'n the dog or you can't learn him nothing."

MAKING A WILL.

If You Draw Up Your Own, Stick to the Most Simple Terms.

"If the people," said a lawyer, "who for whatever reason prefer to draw wills without resorting to legal advice would keep just one thing in mind a lot of trouble would be saved. It is nothing save insistence on simplicity. Simplicity is the main thing to make a will effective, and apparently it is the one thing that the will makers forget about. High sounding words and half remembered law phrases come to their minds, and into the documents these verbal extravagances go. There appears to be a popular impression that, for example, to say 'I give and bequeath' is a stronger way of saying 'I give.' Again, take the matter of directions. Here a desire to be explicit frequently results in contradictions, and the longer a sentence in a will is the more likelihood there is of its being open to mininterpretation.

"No will should be drawn without at least a couple of drafts having been made of it, each one being gone over carefully with the idea of simplifying and clarifying it. Give the time to it that the importance of the action demands. Know what you want to do and study out the best way of expressing yourself. Don't put off making a will. I'm superstitious enough to consider that tempting fate. And when a will is drawn remember that it has no legal binding unless the signature is witnessed by two persons, who must themselves witness the document in the presence of the testator and each other."—New York Press.

A BROKEN CUP.

The Way a Queen Saved an Old Servant From Dismissal.

A charming story is told of the former queen regent of Holland, the mother of Queen Wilhelmina. The old king had bought a fine service of Sevres porcelain for the use of the royal family, and he gave orders that any servant who should break any piece of it should be punished by being instantly dismissed. One day a man who had been many years in the royal household confessed to the young queen that he had broken one of these Sevres cups. Queen Emma spoke comfortingly to him and suggested that he should mend the cup. That, said the man, would be useless, for the king would surely notice the cracks. Nevertheless the queen told him to mend the cup as neatly as possible and to be sure to give it to her that afternoon at tea time, when the king would be present. Tea time came, and the queen, after drinking from the mended cup, suddenly rose and let it fall to the floor. It was smashed to atoms.

"Think of me as one of the most awkward of your majesty's servants," she said humbly. "I have broken one of your precious Sevres cups. You must dismiss me at once. I don't deserve to be retained in your service." The arbitrary old king was highly amused at her demure manner and considered the matter a good joke. He never knew the true story of the broken cup.

Chess and War.

The origin of chess is shrouded in mystery. There is little doubt, however, that its birthplace was in India and that it is an offspring of a game called chaturanga, which is mentioned in oriental literature as in use fully 200 years before the Christian era. From India chess spread into Persia and thence into Arabia, and ultimately the Arabs took it into Spain and the rest of western Europe. The game was in all probability invented for the purpose of illustrating the art of war. The Arab legend upon this point is that it was devised for the instruction of a young despot by his father, a learned Brahman, to teach him that a king notwithstanding his power was dependent for safety upon his subjects. The Greek historians credit the invention of the game to Palamedes, who, they claim, devised it to beguile the tedium of the siege of Troy during the Trojan war.

The Slippery Pronoun.

Many are the circumlocutions which have been devised by civilized races in order to avoid the bluntness of direct address. In fact, it may be said that at the moment when a nation standardizes its language it begins to have trouble with its pronouns.

"Thou" has of course become obsolete except in prayer, although it flourishes colloquially in the north of England. The second person plural is substituted. In parts of the south "you all" is heard, a further step toward refined elusiveness.

In France and Germany "thou" has been retained in familiar or semicontemptuous speech. In Spain and Italy, on the other hand, the third person is substituted habitually in place of it.—Harper's Weekly.

A MODERN MACAULAY.

Wonderful Memory of an Old Time Missouri Lawyer.

One of the most picturesque of the early lawyers of Missouri was Billy Campbell, who came from Virginia in 1829 and opened an office in St Charles. He was a man of great ability, a classic scholar, an orator and a political writer of unusual power. But he was indolent, careless about collecting and spending money and so lazy that physical exertion of any kind was positively painful to him. He had a most remarkable memory, as proved by the following incident: Campbell who was a Whig, represented his district in the state senate several years. On one occasion he was lying on a bench in the senate chamber, apparently sleeping, when the Democratic members came in to hold a caucus. They attempted to arouse him, but he appeared so soundly asleep that they decided to let him alone. The next day a complete report of the proceedings of the caucus, including a verbatim copy of the resolutions adopted, was published in the St. Louis Republican. A row followed, and the secretary was charged with having been bribed to report the proceedings of the caucus. After the excitement died down somewhat Campbell admitted that he had been awake all the time and that he had done the reportorial work entirely from memory.—Kansas City Star.

A MUFF BED.

Surprise of a Man Who Thought It Had to Do With Sleep.

A man who saw on a sign the words "muff beds" and imagined that a muff bed must be something to sleep in, a brother or cousin or other more or less distant relative of the sleeping bag, such as explorers carry with them, found upon inquiry that his imagination had carried him very far from the truth; that the muff bed is in fact not a bed at all, but is the trade name for the inner part of a muff, the body of the muff—in short, the part you put your hands in.

The muff bed consists of a double walled bag made in cylindrical or other shape, according to the style of muff, and then stuffed with down, the quality and quantity of the down depending on the character of the muff.

The making of muff beds is a business by itself. Some of them are sold to the furriers in the simplest form, just the bed or bag stuffed with down, the furrier putting in the silk or satin lining when he puts on the fur. Others are made with the silk or satin inner lining attached, to be finished up when the fur is put on. There is at least one concern in New York that makes a specialty of muff beds and turns out many thousands of them annually.—New York Sun.

Wanted a Rebate.

In a rural community in one of the middle states dwelt a man who made a vow in 1856 that he would wear his hair and beard untrimmed until John C. Fremont should be elected president of the United States. He kept that vow for forty years, at the end of which time he had nearly a half bushel of hair on his head and face. Then, coming to the conclusion, toward which his mind had been gradually working for a long time, that General Fremont's death in the interval had practically absolved him from his vow, he decided to have his hair cut and his beard shaved off clean. On his next visit to the county seat he went to a barber shop and was soon relieved of the hirsute burden he had carried for four decades.

"How much?" he asked.

"Have to charge you half a dollar for that job," said the barber, looking at the mass that lay on the floor.

"Half a dollar!" he gasped. "Don't I get anything for the hair?"

The Actor and the Critic.

One of the near comedians who always affect to be entirely careless of newspaper criticism recently struck from his list of bowing acquaintances a critic noted for his candor. The player met the writer and a friend while crossing a park square and exchanged a few words of greeting and as he passed on heard this conversation:

"Who was that?"

"Oh, that is L., the actor!"

"He does not look much like an actor off the stage."

"Still less when he's on the stage," returned the critic.—Argonaut.

On New England Tombstones.

There were several epitaphs which fascinated you for awhile, epitaphs like that of "Solon Tyndall, Killed by a Fall from the Main topsail Yard of the Bark Amazon, in the Harbor of Buenos Aires on March 12, 1850:

"He as a seaman did his duty well,
But his foot slipped, and from aloft he fell—
Fell, but to rise and climb the shrouds on high
And greet his Master with a glad 'Aye, aye!'"

Or that which recorded the fate of "Absalom Peters, Shot in the Creek by the Explosion of his own Gun."—Collier's Weekly.

A Scramble.

"All the world's a stage."

"What of it?"

"I was just thinking that the cast is so large that nobody gets much of a chance at the spot light."—Philadelphia Bulletin.

Sour Stomach

No appetite, loss of strength, nervousness, headache, constipation, bad breath, general debility, sour risings, and catarrh of the stomach are all due to indigestion. Kodol relieves indigestion. This new discovery represents the natural juices of digestion as they exist in a healthy stomach, combined with the greatest known tonic and reconstructive properties. Kodol for dyspepsia does not only relieve indigestion and dyspepsia, but this famous remedy helps all stomach troubles by cleansing, purifying, sweetening and strengthening the mucous membranes lining the stomach.

Mr. S. S. Ball, of Ravenswood, W. Va., says:—"I was troubled with sour stomach for twenty years. Kodol cured me and we are now using it in milk for baby."

Kodol Digests What You Eat.

Bottles only. Relieves indigestion, sour stomach, belching of gas, etc.

EBONY WOOD.

All of the Several Varieties Are Heavier Than Water.

Ebony was known and highly esteemed by the ancients as an article of luxury and was used by them for a variety of purposes.

In India it is said that it was employed by kings for scepters and also for images. On account of its supposed antagonism to poisons it was used largely for drinking cups.

The name ebony is given to the wood of several varieties of trees. All kinds of ebony are distinguished for their great density and dark color. The wood in all varieties is heavier than water. The heaviest varieties are the darkest. The other grades require a considerable amount of staining to make them black.

Ebony is of a uniform color throughout and will not show any deterioration even from long continued use.

There are three varieties of ebony well known in commerce. The ebony from the Gaboon coast of Africa is the darkest. The Madagascar ebony is the densest. The Macassar ebony furnishes the largest pieces. It is sold by weight.

Imitations of ebony can always be distinguished by their lighter weight, and the cheaper imitations can be detected by merely scratching the surface.

SPECTRAL WARNINGS.

The Bloody Mark That Appeared on Cardan's Finger.

Who shall say that spectral warnings are entirely chimerical? History has many instances to the contrary. Thus the once well known tragedian John Palmer died on the stage at Liverpool. At the same hour and minute a shopman in London, sleeping under a counter, saw distinctly his shade glide through the shop, open the door and pop into the street. This an hour or two later he mentioned very coolly, as if Mr. Palmer himself had been there.

Cardan, the noted Italian philosopher, saw on the ring finger of his right hand the mark of a bloody sword and heard at the same time a voice which bade him go to Milan. The redness progressively increased until midnight. The mark then faded gradually and disappeared. At that midnight hour his son was beheaded at Milan.

The father of Dr. Blombey was captain in an army serving in America. We are told by Dr. Rudge that six officers 300 miles from his position were visited after dinner by this modern Banquo, who sat down in a vacant chair. One said to him, "Blombey, are you mad?" He rose in silence and slowly glided out at the door. He was slain on that day and hour.—St. James' Gazette.

The Wooing of the Woodcock.

The wooing of the woodcock is one of those sights to witness which a lover of nature in all its moods will make a journey of miles. The scene is enacted at twilight, and the setting is of willow or alder bushes whose branches are just beginning to show the tender green of early spring. Suddenly from the damp ground a bird form shoots upward like some swamp spirit until it is outlined against the gray of the evening sky. Then it circles above the branches, and the song of the wooing begins. Hidden in the darkness of the thick lower growth is the object to which this love song is directed. The bird above circles perhaps a score of times, then drops back to the damp thicket, making a sound which can be likened only to the dropping of water into a woodland pool. Again the bird soars and circles, singing still the love song. This is repeated time after time until the last gleam of light has faded and night's darkness comes down.

The Life Saving Service.

The first stations of a life saving service in this country were established by the Massachusetts Humane society at Lovell island and Cohasset. All efforts for saving life and property in cases of shipwreck were made by this society till 1837, when the president of the United States was authorized to employ ships to cruise along the shores and render assistance to distressed navigators. In 1848 congress passed a law creating a few life saving stations between Sandy Hook and Little Egg harbor, New Jersey. From this has grown the splendid system which now takes in all the coasts of the country. —New York American.

A Watch Tip.

"So you lost your watch in the crowd, eh?" Lecoq, the detective, sneered. "Well, I'm ashamed of you.

"You ought to know after your long friendship with me that there's only one safe way for a man to carry a costly watch—in the right hand vest pocket, with the chain running into the right and left pockets.

"The thief always snatches at the left pocket, and of course by my system he gets only a key or a cheap compass."—New Orleans Times-Democrat.

Quite Unexpected.

The Mistress—What, Suzanne, going to leave me? Going to get married? This is most unexpected. The French Maid—Oui, madame, but eet ees not my fault. Eet was only last night zat your son proposed to me.—Harper's Bazar.

Why They Doubted Him.

Hewitt—Figures won't lie. Jewett—That's what I tell the people I meet in business, but they won't believe me. Hewitt—What is your business? Jewett—I'm collector for a gas company.—Town and Country.

BLUE BELL.

Hundreds of people who suffer from backache, rheumatism, lame back, lumbago and similar ailments are not aware that these are merely symptoms of kidney trouble, and to be relieved they must correct the cause. Pineules for the kidneys, pleasant and easy to take, are readily absorbed by the stomach and blood act directly on the kidneys, bringing quick relief to backache and other symptoms of kidney and bladder derangements. A dose of Pineules at bed time brings relief. 30 days' trial $1.00 and guaranteed or money back. Sold at R. C. Dodson's drug store. 3m

DEBSE.

Cards of Thanks.

Two or three weeks ago, observing that our fuel supply was very limited Mr. F. J. Lewis, the genial Rich Valley grocer, with his usual thoughtfulness for our comfort and having the co-operation of several of the kind-hearted residents of this Valley, ordered a carload of excellent hardwood for us of Messrs. Howard & Co., intending to pay a considerable balance which had not been subscribed. But when he talked of settlement with the aforesaid company, they informed him there was nothing to pay.

To Messrs. Howard & Company and also Mr. F. J. Lewis and all who subscribed (who after learning the company gave us the wood, paid us the amount of their subscription) permit me to express my sincere thanks and heartfelt gratitude for your kindness.

Permit me further to express a sincere belief which I entertain, that when a proposal is made to Messrs. Howard & Co., and many others in this vicinity to help in any cause which they deem worthy, "they rock the boat very hard."

WM. OSGOOD,
Pastor of W. M. Church, Rich Valley.

The Remedy That Does.

"Dr. King's New Discovery is the remedy that does the healing others promise but fail to perform," says Mrs. E. R. Pierson, of Auburn Centre, Pa. "It is curing me of throat and lung trouble of long standing, that other treatments relieved only temporarily.
